GENERAL CONFERENCE.

The Book Concern Frauds.

BELMONT ON THE LIBERAL NOMINATIONS.

NEW YORK, May 4, 1872.

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE.

In the Methodist General Conference, to-day, Bishop Simpson presiding, a resolution was offered calling for a special committee of one minister and one layman from each Book district to take especial cognizance of the alleged frauds and mismanagement in the New York Book Concern. After a warm debate, the resolution was tabled.

A motion to reconsider the tabling vote was offered by Dr. Lanahan, who made a speech, in which he said if any one was specially interested in a speedy examination, it was him. For four years he had been held up to the gaze of his fellow churchmen as a sample of a scandalous agitator. He had charged deliberate, scandalous frauds in the book interests of the Church, and he stood ready to make good every charge. For this he had been suspended from his ministerial functions by an ecclesiastical court, and even a trial in civil courts had been fulminated against him, to support which the funds of the very institution of which he was an agent had been used. He now asked that the committee be ordered and the subject settled finally and forever. He was prepared with a full report, in which his defense and charges should stand in full.

Dr. Buckley also advocated the committee in a forcible speech, amidst repeated interruption.

Mr. Queen, of the New York Conference, moved an indefinite postponement of the whole subject, which was carried—190 to 15.

Dr. Foster, of the New York Conference, called for the printing of all papers on the Book Concern for the information of delegates.

Dr. Curry, of the New York East Conference, opposed this as out of the regular order.

A delegate moved that the report be called for now.

Dr. Brooks, Chairman of the Book Committee, stated that they were not ready, but would be glad to report on Monday.

Dr. Slicer, of Baltimore, asked whether the reports of expert Wm. Gunn and other experts were to accompany W. Kilbreth's report. He moved that the committee be instructed to furnish all the reports.

The resolution was tabled.

Dr. Foster then withdrew his motion.

On motion of Dr. Woodruff, of the New York East Conference, a committee of five was appointed on the subject of a monument to Bishop Kingsley at Beyrout, Syria.

Petitions, memorials and appeals from the annual conference were received and referred. Adjourned.

LIBBIE GARRABRANT'S TRIAL ENDED.

The trial of Libbie Garrabrant for the murder of Ranson F. Burroughs terminated at Paterson, New Jersey, to-day, in a verdict of murder in the first degree. It is said the charge of the judge was very damaging to the case of the prisoner, leaving the jury but little choice. The prisoner maintained her composure throughout the trying ordeal, but broke down on re-entering the prison. She will be sentenced on May 18.

GREELEY IN CHAPPAQUA.

Mr. Greeley has not been in the city to-day. It is reported he will remain at his home in Chappaqua till the nomination is formally accepted, to avoid making injudicious remarks, which might be called out by well-meant congratulations of his friends.

NEW YORK, May 5, 1872.

AUGUST BELMONT AND THE LIBERALS.

August Belmont was interviewed yesterday, and said of the platform and the nominees of the Cincinnati convention: This is now but a bombshell. We must wait until we see its effects on the press, the people, and, in fact, on many things. It must go further. I go further. It may be policy to adopt the ticket. Mr. Greeley, in my opinion, will run well in the Southern States. But, as I said before, it is too soon to judge yet. I will do most anything to beat this administration, not that I have anything against Mr. Grant, but I do not like his idea of government. The Philadelphia convention must meet yet, and then the Democratic party will have to act wisely. It is my opinion that the Liberal ticket will be withdrawn in September if the Democrats make a good nomination. In the meantime I judge it better for the party to say or do nothing. That is better. What we might say now would probly be prevented or turned against us when the nominations are made.

LEAVING FOR THE ARMY REUNION.

Generals Hooker, Burnside, Farnum, A. S. Williams, and other prominent members of the societies of the Army of the Potomac and Grand Army of the Republic leave to-morrow for Cleveland, to attend the annual meeting of the societies on Tuesday and Wednesday.

THE TWEEDS GOING TO EUROPE.

Passports have been procured for several members of the Tweed family, including the General, indicating an extended tour in Europe. It does not appear that the elder Tweed will accompany the party.

THE MAZZINI MONUMENT.

The sculptor Tantardini, of Milan, has accepted the commission of making a bust of Mazzini for the New York monument, and contributes one thousand francs to the fund.

SWINDLING.

Orpheus M. Barnard was arrested for swindling the Franklin Savings Bank out of $3,400 by forged checks.

CLEVELAND.

Oil Fires.

CLEVELAND, May 5.—About five o'clock last evening, a fire broke out in one of the agitators of the Standard Oil Co's. works, situated one and a half miles east of this city. In a few minutes three stills were on fire, and their contents escaping, ran down the hill into the river, which was soon covered with burning oil and oil barrels. The fire department could do little or nothing toward extinguishing the flames, and directed their efforts toward saving such portions of the works as were near the burning oil. About four thousand barrels of distillate and refined oil were burned and the refinery damaged to the amount of $10,000. The total loss is about $25,000.

About an hour later the oil shipping house and platform near the A. & G. W. depot caught fire, and were totally destroyed, together with their contents, consisting of between one hundred and fifty and two hundred barrels of refined oil. Loss about $10,000. It was with the greatest difficulty that the bonded warehouse near the burning shed, containing 2,000 barrels of refined oil, were saved.

INDIANA.

The Democratic National Convention—The Liberals Repudiated.

TERRE HAUTE, May 5.—The following telegram from Mr. Voorhees is furnished to the agent of the Associated Press by the editor of the Terre Haute Journal:

Washington, D. C., May 4, 1872.—Editor Terre Haute Journal: The Democrats will meet as usual in National Convention, and through its authorized delegates nominate its candidates and declare its policy. Until then no man has the right to question the party as to its future action. Its reorganization and principles should be maintained at all hazards.

[Signed] D. W. VOORHEES.

THE LIBERALS REPUDIATED.

The Liberal movement has no possible strength here. Both parties repudiate it with almost entire unanimity.

CHICAGO.

Impending Strike of Laborers Denied.

CHICAGO, May 4.—There have been rumors for several days past of an impending general strike of the laborers and mechanics engaged in rebuilding the burnt district, on the 15th of May. At a meeting of the various trades unions held last night, it was authoritatively announced by leading speakers that no strike is contemplated; that while a demonstration of workingmen in the shape of a procession and open air meeting, with speeches, &c., is proposed to be made on the day mentioned, the object is simply to show the strength of trades' unions, and induce stranger workingmen here to join them. The capitalists and contractors engaged in the work of rebuilding here have very generally declared their intention to suspend work entirely rather than submit to a rise in wages or reduction in the hours of labor.

CINCINNATI.

Telegraphing Convention News.

CINCINNATI, May 5.—From April 24th to the time of the Convention, news began to be transmitted to the night of May 3d. The total specials and regular reports transmitted from here by the Western Union Telegraph were 571,541 words. The Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph transmitted 100,000 words from here of Convention news during the ten days ending May 3d. The Atlantic and Pacific sent during the same time about 12,000. The total amount sent by all lines from this city was about 700,000, or about 70,000 per day. This rate was much increased during the first three days of May.

ST. LOUIS.

Site for Government Building.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—The commissioners for selecting a site for the new government building in this city held a meeting yesterday, and four of the five decided on the block bounded by Seventh and Eighth and Pine and Chestnut streets. W. Fox will make a minority report in favor of the condemnation of the block between Sixth and Seventh and Olive and Pine streets. Mr. Mullett, government architect, is not satisfied with the grade of the block selected.

Destructive Fire.

MARSHALLTOWN, April 4.—The most destructive fire that has ever occurred in central Iowa took place about noon to-day. It commenced in Stanley's Elevator, and quickly communicated to the adjoining buildings; and fanned by high winds, it at one time threatened the whole town. The whole south-east part of the city is in ruins. The loss foots up about $300,000.

GREELEY AND BROWN.

Press Comments on the Liberal Nominations.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of the 4th, warmly endorses the nominations made on Friday, while at the same time expressing the opinion that the nominations of Adams and Trumbull would have been more acceptable. It says: Whether we find it our duty to urge upon our fellow citizens the election of Horace Greeley to the Presidency depends largely upon that which may be done by the regular organization of old existing political parties. Mr. Greeley, a few weeks ago, frankly stated that he would support the Cincinnati nominee, provided the Democratic party did not appear in the field in the form of attempting to take advantage of the Republican divisions, and that in case there was a regular Democratic nomination, he would support the strongest Republican candidate. We have made similar reservations as to our position in case of the nomination of Mr. Adams, and we repeat them in respect to Mr. Greeley. Disagreeing always with Mr. Greeley's tariff notions, we have from the beginning believed in his doctrine that with impartial suffrage should be associated universal amnesty, and we have popular faith in his perfect integrity, his temperate and modest life, his incessant industry, his hatred of shams and warfare on wrongs, and his courageous candor and abounding generosity have commended him to the heart and conscience of the American people; and in whatever their confidence may be shaken, he can safely defy the ingenuity of malice, even through the torments of the Presidential campaign, to affect his reputation as an honest man. Among the things that are likely to be objectionable in the candidacy of Mr. Greeley, a want of popular strength will not, in our opinion, be numbered. We have no doubt of the immediate and thorough co-operation of the Democratic party in the Greeley movement. Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, has, we understand, promised to go for Greeley, and will run for Governor of the State on the Cincinnati platform. His point, of course, is to beat Morton for the Senate. The Hon. George H. Pendleton did not hesitate last evening to declare himself for Greeley. A Democratic National Convention will be called, and it will indorse the work of the Cincinnati Convention, ticket and platform. Under these conditions the strength of Mr. Greeley in the South will be overwhelming. The colored people have much confidence in him, and old Confederates will remember his magnanimity in bailing their chief, and his generous measures of amnesty with which it has been his wish to soften the rudeness of their calamity. Liberty, union and suffrage for all being secured, he has thought kindness the best policy, and charitableness the better part of statesmanship. The general result is that Mr. Greeley is so popular in the South, and the conditions of the canvass are likely to be such that he will carry every State south of the Potomac, Ohio and Missouri rivers. There will be a flood in that land that will not leave a dry spot sticking out from the Chesapeake to the Rio Grande. The undoubted protective doctrines of Mr. Greeley will give him immense strength in Pennsylvania, which, confronted by the weakness of the Republican State ring ticket, gives him a bond for that State. New York may be counted sure for Greeley by an enormous majority, and indeed, if the Democracy will not nominate, and the Philadelphia Convention nominates Grant, it will be difficult to name the State as certain for the official and regular Republican candidate. But will not this be a process for restoring the Democratic party to power? We think not. It seems to us to resolve all parties into chaos, and it will be the breaking up and crushing out of existing organizations, and we shall have, as Henry Ward Beecher said the other day, "a new deal."

The Cincinnati Enquirer of the 4th says the platform of the Convention is a splendid one, and one upon which every honest man and friend of Republican institutions can stand. Its adoption by acclamation was the death knell to the hopes of the friends of Grant's military dynasty. They felicitated themselves with the idea that the convention would break up in a row over the tariff question. Those of them who were present at the session on Thursday night could readily be distinguished by their exulting applause when for a time there was a little excitement growing out of the hasty and ill-considered remarks of an Ohio delegate, Judge Matthews. They have, in this, experienced their first but not their last disappointment. They hoped that the convention would nominate a weak ticket, and it is certainly one of strength. They hoped the Democracy would not rally to its support, and we think they will be deceived. The convention has done itself honor by the manner in which it has settled this vexed business of platform and proved themselves worthy representatives of the masses of their countrymen, who, disagreeing upon many questions, are determined to unite to save the government from being destroyed by military tyranny or by the cancer of corruption pervading every branch of the public service.

The Cincinnati Gazette of the 4th says: Several hundred persons, called from various parts of the country by a cry of opposition to Grant, and representing nothing but themselves, constituted themselves a national nominating convention, and nominated Horace Greeley and Barter Gratz Brown. Their number and character have about the same proportion to their assumption as in the case of the three tailors of Dooley street, who issued a proclamation beginning: "We, the people of England." The contrivers trust that the Democratic convention will also nominate this ticket. What can they promise on their part? Can they plege even the votes of their so-called convention? On the other hand, what evidence have they that the Democratic convention will ratify these nominations? There were some Democratic committals with regard to Mr. Adams, but if these were sifted, the tangible part would be found to be a slender thread. And this was only individual expression, which could not pretend to pledge the party or convention. There are no committals to Mr. Greeley; yet upon this, which is the wildest reckoning without the host, the most unscrupulous struggle has been made for this nomination, and the most indecent bargains, as if any Republican of unspotted character, who could bring its nomination to the Democratic convention, could rely on receiving its nomination. What does it present to the Democratic convention? A Republican high tariff frantic, who has declared that his idea of protection is $100 per ton on pig iron, whose nomination was worked up by a band of New York politicians in New York, combined with the agents of the Pennsylvania pig iron and coal monopolies. These were the powers that planned the strategic movement in the convention. These have eliminated from it tariff reformers who originated this movement, and who are the only men high in arms with these candidates, who will now come to the lobby of the Democratic convention, and ask it to ratify a successful stratagem of the convention of the New York ring and the Pennsylvania pig iron monopoly, and the bought and sold Missouri bummers. It is not likely that the Democratic convention will sell itself so cheaply.

The Detroit Free Press (Democratic), of the 4th, says of the Cincinnati nomination, that Greeley is a strong man with whom to demoralize the Republican party, and will probably result in the defeat of Grant's nomination of election, and considers the chances of the Democracy largely increased, and nothing necessary to secure its success but a strong nomination and platform.

The Detroit Post of the 4th, an administration paper, ridicules Greeley's nomination, and says it will not injure the Republican party in the least, while it will render the Democratic cause utterly hopeless.

The Detroit Tribune of the 4th (Independent Republican) says that the truest and most sagacious friends of the Liberal movement saw with regret Greeley's nomination. They would regard his election as a public calamity, and think that he is not entitled to Republican support in the present candidacy.

The New York Herald of the 4th has a two column double leaded article on the nomination at Cincinnati on Friday. It says they will excite suprise and interest. The nomination of Greeley is the most striking event in some respects ever known in political history, and attributes it to the strength of his personal character and devotion of his admirers. After some reflections upon the fact that Greeley and Brown are both journalists, and that the nomination of Greeley is largely due to the support of the independent press, especially the Herald, and after reviewing the names, which were before the convention to show that Greeley was the strongest and most popular candidate, the Herald goes into an inquiry as to the effect of the nomination and probabilities of the success of the ticket. It has not much faith in the convention movement, and points out the weakness of Greley's public position and the strength of Grant's, and thinks the followers of the latter require very strong temptation to induce them to desert his standard. The canvass will be a purely personal one, for there is no principle developed in the Cincinnati platform. There is nothing except restlessness in the country under our foreign policy, and a desire for a change. Slighter considerations have controlled former elections; whether they will do so now, the Herald does not undertake to predict.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 4th says: "The Cincinnati convention has presented the strongest ticket to the country that could be presented. As lookers-on in Venice, we may be permitted to express our opinion that General Grant will discover this to be the hardest rock he has ever butted his head against. Greeley and Brown are both acceptable to the people of the South, and if they have to decide between this and another four years of Grant and his bayonet rule, there will not be much hesitancy which horn of the dilemma they will take. We think it probable, however, that the nomination will frighten the Philadelphia convention into abandoning Grant, and we predict great efforts at the reconciliation of the two wings of the Republican party. The Whigs will probably support the ticket, whether there is a Democratic nomination or not."

The New York World of the 4th says there have been many rumors as to what will be Mr. Greeley's course in reference to the Tribune; the most important of which are, will he resign the editorship and sell his stock and retire from the paper? The reasons alleged are that his candidacy would so embarrass the action of the paper as to deprive it of its usefulness in the Presidential contest.

The New York Tribune of the 4th says: "We do not feel at liberty to print the personal telegrams received last evening from widely separated points, indicating hearty acquiescence in support of the nominations made yesterday at Cincinnati, but the senders will accept our thanks."

The Cincinnati Times and Chronicle of the 4th announces, on the authority of Judge Stallo, that Gen. Fred Hecker, of Illinois, who left this city last night for home, sick and disgusted, declared his intention of making speeches from his sick bed, if necessary, in order to defeat the Cincinnati nominees.

The St. Louis Times, of the 4th, says: We were inclined to think that the Cincinnati convention had done its work. It certainly acted wisely in placing Mr. Greeley at the head of the ticket, instead of Mr. Adams. It can be said of him, with truth and justice, that no public man in the Republican party has stood by the interests of the Southern people since the war more boldly and consistently. Probably no candidate could have been named to more largely divide the Radical party, or strike greater terror to the friends of Grant. The ticket receives additional strength, moreover, in the West especially, by the nomination of Brown to the Vice Presidency, and it was wise under the circumstances that he withdrew his claim to the higher place, although to the Democrats generally he would have been a more acceptable choice, if a Republican candidate were to be their choice at all. Altogether, the convention has agreeably disappointed many friends of the movement, who feel nervously apprehensive lest it should not rise so nearly to the dignity and requirements of the occasion. In these respects it has achieved its work more satisfactorily than many of our Democratic friends were disposed to anticipate, and proves itself the type and representative of an actual political power, not inconsiderable in proportions, and directed to salutary and patriotic objects.

The New York Journal of Commerce of the 4th, on the Cincinnati nominations, says: There were two courses open to this convention of disaffected Republicans: One, to nominate a candidate of high character and moderate views, who had a good standing among men of all parties, and who, by securing a subsequent Democratic endorsement, might fairly hope to be elected; the other, to nominate a well-known partisan of the Republican party who should stand well with and fairly represent the views of those assembled, and be likely to draw out their strength in the canvass, but who could not expect Democratic endorsement, and would thus compel the regular Republican Convention to endorse him or throw the electoral vote into the hands of their opponents. Whether wisely or not, the convention has chosen the latter of these alternatives, and has put forward for the Presidency the name of Horace Greeley.

The Journal concludes: If this nomination is heartily accepted by all who were represented at Cincinnati, it will prove the hardest problem the party has been called to solve since it first came into power.

The New York Evening Post of the 4th opposes the nominations and platform of the Cincinnati convention, and contends that Greeley lacks the courage, firmness and consistency required in a chief magistrate; that his political associations and intimacies are bad; that he is a bigoted protectionist, and that his manners are gross. It says Greeley can have no hope of an election; and if he runs, it will only divide the Republicans, leaving the field clear to the Democrats, who, should they have sense enough, as many of them already urge, to put up such a ticket as Adams and Groesbeck, will bid fair to sweep the field.

The New York Staats Zeitung says: Greeley and Brown are good men, and liked by both Americans and Germans in this country, but that if Mr. Adams had been nominated, they would have been satisfied. The Zeitung avoids saying who it will support, though it concedes that the Liberal ticket is very strong. They will defer any declaration until after the Germans have held meetings and decided the question, which will be done next month.

The Boston Post, a leading Democratic paper, speaking of the Cincinnati convention and its nominations, says: Proposing lofty results, with which the people everywhere were in active sympathy, when it came to the application of its means, it failed miserably. Few persons in their sober senses will deny that the selection of Horace Greeley by an assembly so powerfully equipped with the popular sympathy as a candidate for the Presidency is a disappointment for which they were not prepared.

The Boston Advertiser had a leading editorial on the subject, headed "The ridiculous muss."

The Boston Journal says, "The general opinion of the Republicans is that Greeley is decidedly the best nominee whom the Cincinnati convention could have selected for the benefit of the Republican party.

The Washington Chronicle and Republican both oppose the nomination of Greeley.

The St. Louis Anzeiger, a German paper, which was a strong supporter, however, of the Liberal movement, emphatically declares against Greeley and Brown. It takes the ground that by these nominations the convention became untrue to the ideas which called the Liberal movement into existence, and selected two men for the highest positions in the country whose erratic and whimsical characters make them unfit, and in reality, the most unsafe persons in the United States for the executive departments of the nation. It looks at the nomination as the result of a scheme concocted by the Blair family. It foresees an administration of eccentricities, during which the corruptest men in the nation will be the substantial rulers, using good old Greeley as a mere tool for their nefarious schemes, and continuing the present system only under different colors. It mentions that Greeley might perhaps continue in the Presidential chair his opposition to personal administration; but inasmuch as he is an enraged protectionist, he would systematically keep open that permanent source of corruption which is embodied in any protection system.

The Springfield (Illinois) State Register raises the standard of Greeley and Brown, and in a leading editorial heartily endorses the platform adopted by the Cincinnati Liberal Reform Convention. The Register closes its editorial as follows: We have confidence enough in the good sense of the Democracy to believe that it will yield the ticket a cheerful, earnest and successful support. The action of the convention is eminently satisfactory to the Democrats and Liberal Republicans, and the enthusiasm for the ticket is great.

The St. Louis Times says: We shall support Greeley and Brown cheerfully by laboring for an endorsement of their candidacy by the Democratic National Convention, because, first, we believe they can be elected; second, because, if elected, they will free us forever from a semi-military despotism like that of Grant; third, because both are able and honest men; fourth, because there is no prospect of doing any better, and great danger that we might do much worse; fifth, because, if elected, there is hardly any danger of such a ticket being counted out by the methods so well known to the Grant party. We predict that not only were the Democratic party to endorse the ticket through their national convention without dissent or discussion, but that it will acquire new and unexpected strength, and will finally be ratified by the largest popular and electoral vote given to any candidate since 1852.

The St. Louis Westliche Post, the organ of Senator Schurz, announces its support of the Greeley and Brown ticket in the following words: After the anxious suspense which was felt here with regard to the Cincinnati Convention, it is by no means surprising that the result is not entirely satisfactory to many persons. It is true Greeley is known throughout the land as an honest, well-meaning man, and the Germans must especially appreciate the really noble position which his Tribune assumed, in contrast with all other English papers, during the French and German war; but for these very same reasons the Germans cannot after all help being to some extent alienated by some of their notions, which to some extent must be admitted to be not altogether Liberal, and putting the question whether a more popular head might not have been given to the reform movement, which certainly originated here, entirely justified as this feeling and disappointment are, still the Grant party will not profit by them, for when people once begin to criticise they are not likely to confine their objections to the candidates of one party; and what upright patriot is there, dissatisfied with Greeley's nomination, who would so much as think of Grant? If the Cincinnati convention has not put forward the best man, that is surely no reason for now voting for the worst. Frequently in life, and above all, frequently in American polit..s, the experience is made that the best is simply not to be had, and then no better resource remains for us than to accept the comparatively better.

A DENIAL.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., May 4.—The statement in a special dispatch in the New York Tribune of the 3d, from Cincinnati, that Hon. D. J. Morrell, of Pennsylvania, was Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, is not true. Mr. Morrell has not been from here (his home) this week, and is in no way identified with the Cincinnati movement, but will undoubtedly support the nominee of the Philadelphia convention.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—The office of the Clark County Herald, at Marshall, Ills., was partly destroyed by fire last Saturday night.

—A boy named Claude Curtis, while playing on some empty cars at Brazil, Ind., on Saturday evening, fell between two cars, breaking his back and killing him instantly.

—A gang of counterfeiters was arrested on the borders of Virginia and North Carolina, and committed to jail at Lynchburg. A press and dies for counterfeiting gold and silver coin were seized.

—John W. B. Ceilkenson, a wood turner of Baltimore, aged twenty-seven, killed his wife, aged twenty-three, last Saturday night, cutting her head open with a cleaver. He then took strychnine, but will recover. He was committed to prison.

—A dispatch from Holden, Mo., says there is the best assurance for saying that if the Sheriff of Cass county fails to perform his duty that the United States authorities will arrest the assassins of Stephens, Kline and Dutro, in the face of Gov. Brown's proclamation.

—A Washington special says: At a Cabinet meeting on Saturday a reply was received from the English government in reference to the negative principle of international law which Mr. Fish had brought himself to be willing to accept as the condition of our retreat. It is so exceedingly unsatisfactory to this government that it is probable there will be no back-down after all, and the position assumed by the President in the beginning, that the question of consequential damages is one for the Geneva tribunal to settle, will be insisted upon.

WACHTEL has been married twice and is the father of eight children. His present wife was with him in this country. His home is in the German watering-place, Wiesbaden, whither he is now going. We have already mentioned the fact that Carl Rosa paid him one-third of the gross receipts of the late season of opera for his services, and from the large attendance at each performance one can form some idea of the amount of money which the great tenor took away with him in the family purse.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

LONDON, May 4.—The Times this morning urges President Grant to send to the Geneva Tribunal a communication which shall supercede the original of the American case containing claims for consequential damages.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The London Telegraph of the 22d ult., editorially, on the American claims, says the Americans are no longer in doubt as to our resolve in the matter. Concession has with us reached its utmost limit, and no English ministry would dream of surrendering the ground now taken up with the approval of the entire people, and of the most enlightened minds of every nation, the American included.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The London Telegraph, of the 25th of April, says: No premature utterance from the lips of the Prime Minister or of the Foreign Secretary must be permitted to afford President Grant an excuse for saying that England, least of all the House of Lords, has put the treaty of Washington to death. To all who, in spite of past disappointments, wish well to the treaty of Washington, and believe in the possibility of its still being brought to a successful issue, it will be evident that an angry controversy on the subject in popular assemblies like the House of Commons or the House of Representatives is above all things to be depreciated.

MEMORIAL FOR COPYRIGHT TREATY.

LONDON, May 5.—A memorial was presented to Earl Granville yesterday urging Her Majesty's government to secure a just and equitable copyright treaty with the United States. Among the signers are Carlyle, Froude, John Stuart Mill, Hughley Morley and Ruskin. Lord Granville replied that the government would carefully consider the subject.

FRANCE.

TRIAL OF MARSHAL BAZAINE.

PARIS, May 4.—The trial by court martial of Marshal Bazaine will be held in the riding school at Versailles, and will commence in the latter part of May. The trial will probably last over one hundred days. Twelve hundred witnesses will be summoned. The government will allow Marshal Bazaine to employ as counsel M. Lachard, the well-known advocate.

REPORT ON CAPITULATIONS.

PARIS, May 5.—The report of the commission on capitulations exonerates the General commanding in the Lower Rhine department of all blame for the surrender of Lichtenberg, and reprimands the commanders who capitulated at Marsal and Vitry Le Francais. Gen. Cissey, Minister of War, announces that vigorous justice shall be meted out to all Generals who surrendered during the war. There is no doubt but that court martials will be ordered in the cases of Generals Wimpffen and Uhrich.

Edouard Allou, the well known advocate, declares he will not defend Marshal Bazaine.

GORTSCHAKOFF NOT RESIGNED.

The Journal Des Debates denies the truth of the report published by the Memorial Diplomatique that the Czar had accepted the resignation of Prince Gortschakoff and appointed his successor. The Journal denies that Gortschakoff even tendered his resignation.

SPAIN.

A RISING EXPECTED IN CATALONIA.

MADRID, May 4.—A rising of Carlists on a large scale is expected to-day in Catalonia. The government has distributed troops through the province to suppress whatever demonstration may be made.

THE CARLIST LEADER.

It is positively asserted by the partisans of Don Carlos that their leader has not left the Spanish territory, as expected, but is yet at some point in the province of Navarre. The government hopes to capture him.

AN ENGAGEMENT ON THE TAPIS.

Marshal Serrano, with his troops, has come up with the principal Carlist band in Navarre, and the two forces now confront each other. An engagement is expected soon.

COMMUNICATION RE-ESTABLISHED.

Communication between this city and Bilboa, which was interrupted by the Carlists burning the railroad bridge in the province of Biscay, has been re-established.

A REBEL REPULSE.

The Government troops encountered a Carlist band in the province of Tarragona, and after a short conflict, repulsed the insurrectionists.

DON CARLOS IN VERA.

It is now said Don Carlos entered Vera, a town in Navarre, on the Bedasova river, which forms part of the boundary between France and Spain, yesterday. His entry was greeted with ringing of church bells and cheering by the people. It is also said that Don Carlos was joined at Vera by Roda, the Carlist leader who, it was reported, had fled into France with his troops.

The Gazette (official) confirms the report that Don Carlos has entered Navarre and been joined by Roda who, it was stated, has been pursued into France by the troops under Gen. Kivaro.

CARLISTS SURROUNDED.

MADRID, May 4.—Evening.—The latest information from the province of Navarre is that hostilities have commenced between the insurrectionists, commanded by Carlos, and the troops led by Marshal Serrano. Gen Rivera is harrassing the rear of the insurgent forces, who are surrounded by the loyal troops. A band of Carlists, under the command of Rotundo, has been completely defeated.

A CARLIST DEFEAT.

MADRID, May 5.—Evening.—A dispatch from San Sebastian this afternoon says, "The division under Morioras to-day completely defeated the Carlists concentrated in Navarre, after a conflict of nine hours. The troops carried the village of Carasa at the point of the bayonet. The whole Carlist centre is captured. It is said Don Carlos is a prisoner."

THE SITUATION.

PARIS, May 5.—The following is the latest news of Don Carlos' movements and the state of affairs in Spain: Don Carlos arrived at Vera, in Navarre, forty miles north of Pampeluna, on Thursday. He immediately issued two proclamations, one of which begins, "Spaniards, soldiers, the watchword is God and the country. The king appeals to your honor, on God's altar, to annihilate the foreigner. He promises peace, abundance and liberty."

On the 2d inst. bands of Carlists existed in the provinces of Navarre, Gulpugosa, Biscay, Alavaw, Terrsdel, Castellon, Barcelona, Tarragona, Senida, Valencia, Segoria, Avila, Burgos, Aragon, Leon, Valladolid and Oreido.

The Spanish government has fears of a rising of Republicans in the South. Thirty deputies only attended the sitting of the Cortes on the 2d.

DON CARLOS FLYING INTO FRANCE.

MADRID, May 5—9 P. M.—Don Carlos, with only 200 adherents, has passed through Unsea, flying into France. A battle, in which he received a complete defeat, was fought at Oronquirta yesterday. Of the Carlist forces engaged, thirty-eight were killed and seven hundred and forty-seven taken prisoners. The insurrection is at an end.

CANADA.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

OTTAWA, May 4.—Last night Sir John A. MacDonald, Premier of the Dominion government, and one of the Joint High Commissioners, introduced a bill to give effect to certain clauses of the Treaty of Washington. He had originally intended merely to suspend the fishing laws, which prevent Americans from fishing in our waters during the coming season. As, however, the American government had acted on all the claims, the Canadian government had decided to follow the same course. The first clause of the bill was to suspend the present fishing laws which prohibit Americans from fishing in Canadian waters. The second clause provides that during the existence of the treaty, fish and fish oil, with the exception of such products of the inland lakes, shall be admitted from the United States free of duty. The third clause provides for a continuance of the bonding system during the operation of the treaty. The fourth clause provides that the right of transhipment contained in the thirteenth clause of the treaty shall be insured to citizens of the United States during the existence of the treaty. The last clause provides that the act shall go into effect on the issuance by the government of an order in Council. This bill brought all the subjects of the treaty, which the Canadian Parliament had power to act on, before the House. The treaty had been largely discussed in the public press, and his position with reference to it had been the subject of comment. No matter what might be the consequences, this Parliament had the right to reject the clauses of the treaty affecting Canada, if they pleased. If such right did not exist, he would have had no right to sign the treaty as a plenipotentiary.

Sir John spoke over five hours, and reviewed the whole commission, strongly urging the House to assen to the bill.

RUSSIA.

RIOT IN KHARDOF.

LONDON, May 5.—It is reported a serious riot took place in Khardof, a large market town of South Russia, last week, caused by the interference of the police with the Easter amusements of the people. The fire engines were brought out to disperse the crowds by throwing water on them. This so exasperated the populace that they attacked the police and fire stations, and gutted them. The Governor ordered out the troops, who were stoned by the mob, whereupon they fired, and many citizens were killed and wounded. The rioters then dispersed, and at last accounts the city was quiet, but under martial law.

MEXICO.

THE REVOLUTION.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 27, via HAVANA, May 5.—Confidence is slowly returning. The prospects of commerce are improving. Anarchy continues in Durango, San Luis, Sacatecas and Jalisco. The government forces are occupying the places held by the Yucatan insurgents.

Rocha has destroyed the remnants of Dovato Guerra's insurgent troops.

PERSONAL.

Guezman, the new member of the Claims Commission, leaves on the 14th of May for Washington.

Velasco has resigned the Ministry of the Interior.

Lerdo De Tegado is recovering from a dangerous illness, and becomes Foreign Minister.

THE STATE.

WEST GOSHEN, Chester county, has a calf without eyes or tail.

ERIE of late has had a good share of patronage generally bestowed by burglars.

AUSTIN GARVIN died from hydrophobia in Scranton a few days since. His death agonies were terrible.

MR. ELIAS HAMILTON, of Lancaster, had his neck broken by being thrown from a carriage last Saturday.

THE Odd Fellows of Oil City have purchased a lot, and intend erecting a three-story brick building the present season.

THE Supreme Court meets in Harrisburg, on Monday, May 6th. The cases from the counties of Lancaster, York and Adams will be taken up.

THE residence and barn of Mr. H. M. Gilman, on his farm near North East, Erie county, were destroyed by fire last Wednesday. Loss $9,000, one-third insured.

MISS ADELAIDE LADLEY, daughter of George Ladley, of West Chester, died in North Carolina, a few days since, in the 30th year of her age. She was a young lady of high literary attainment, and one of the editors of Harper's Bazaar. Her father was formerly a resident of Lancaster county.

THE contested election case in the Lawrence County Commissioner matter has been abandoned by the petitioners—it being demonstrated that about as many illegal votes were cast on one side as the other, and therefore it was considered unnecessary to pursue the matter any further.

AN OLD colored woman by the name of Burr died at the residence of Hector Mullen, near New Centreville, Chester county, a few days ago. She was brought to Philadelphia about the year 1772, and said she was eleven years old, making her one hundred and eleven years old at the time of her death.

THE Germantown Telegraph says: "The effects of the prolonged severity of the winter upon the evergreens of almost every kind, except the firs and spruces, have never been so destructive within our memory. Even the American arbor vitæ has been greatly injured and in many places killed. The ivy also is mostly dead."

OUR OHIO NEIGHBORS.

THERE is a house famine in New Lisbon.

A NEW Odd Fellows' Hall was dedicated in Akron on Friday.

THE bill to legalize 10 per cent. interest was defeated in the Ohio Legislature.

A ZANESVILLE thief is charged with stealing and selling the iron railing in graveyards.

COWS are scarce on the Western Reserve this spring, and command from $45 to $65 per head.

MANSFIELD desires another Railroad to Wheeling. The B. & O. R. R. does not satisfy the wants of that ambitious town.

THE wool business is attracting much attention, and great expectations of high prices for the ensuing clip are entertained. A sale of 3,000 fleeces was lately made in Harrison county, Ohio, at eighty cents per pound.

THE Springfield Advertiser man said the "gilt-edged" young ladies of that town will flirt with any stranger that comes along, who wears good clothes, no matter whether he is a showman, drummer, swindler or thief. He wears a wig now.

CAREY WALLACE, one of the Youngstown burglars, whose trial was set for the next term of court, secured bail one day last week, was released from jail, and in the twinkling of an eye, joined himself in matrimony to Miss Maggie Callahan, of Canfield, and is now sporting eastward on a honeymoon.

DIAMONDS IN CALIFORNIA.

Gems of the First Water Found in El Dorado County.

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "F. H. Plumado, of Placerville, El Dorado County, yesterday, brought to San Francisco two valuable diamonds, discovered in a gravel claim in the vicinity of Placerville, by H. H. Olmstead. Mr. Plumado, accompanied by James C. Bronson, who resided at Placerville since 1852 until he moved to this city some two weeks ago, yesterday called at the Chronicle office to exhibit the stones, and a reporter was detailed to accompany the gentleman to the establishment of Charles Lemme, manufacturing jeweler, No. 413 Bush street, opposite the California Theater, for the purpose of having them subjected to the inspection of an expert. As frequent accounts have appeared of fictitious diamonds, manufactured in England for the purpose of 'salting' claims in the diamond regions of Africa, the report of Mr. Lemme was looked for with considerable interest. The largest crystal was first examined, and, after a very short inspection, was declared to be a genuine diamond, beyond question, and of good quality. It weighed 2¼ carats, and the expert pronounced it worth at the least calculation, $200. He said the price would not be certainly fixed until after it had been cut. It will probably be sent to Boston for that purpose. It is a stone of the first water, quite clear, and apparently without flaws, the crystalization being unusually perfect. The smaller one weighs 1⅗ carat, and is of comparatively little value, presenting a good many imperfections. When cut it will make a stone worth $20 or $30. The larger stone was exhibited at two or three other establishments, and its genuineness was pronounced unquestionable by all the experts, though they differed widely in their estimates of its value—some placing it as high as $500, and others as low as $100. It will not be surrendered by the owner for the highest sum named.

What the People Think of Mr. Rutan—Beaver County Will Go for Dravo.

BEAVER COUNTY, May 5, 1872.

MESSRS. EDITORS OF GAZETTE:—As you take considerable interest in the welfare of our county it may be some pleasure to you and your readers to learn that our agricultural, manufacturing and commercial friends in this county feel encouraged at the prospects of a fruitful season and business activity. As the nomination of State Senator and minor offices approaches, there is much thinking and talking upon Mr. Webster's charge to American citizens, "That this lovely land, this glorious liberty, these benign institutions are ours to enjoy, ours to preserve, ours to transmit," which patriotic feelings have been aroused by the course of our Senator during the last session at Harrisburg. The eastern portion of our county complains they had good prospects of a narrow gauge railroad, but their charter was defeated because it received no attention from the Senator. The western part are still more out of humor, denouncing our Senator for trying to destroy improvements that were established by citizens of your's and our county for the development of the resources of our county, bringing out our mineral wealth, and doing a vast amount of good to our community, and they assert that there is no encouragement to capitalists to invest in any enterprise so long as he is in the Senate. They will not trust their interests to his guardianship; while from the middle portion of the county we hear the assertions made that they are not going to sell their "birthright for a mess of pottage," and therefore will take no delight in hearing of the munificent gifts that were presented to the Speaker of the Senate; as the tastes of the Speaker seemed to be more studied than the minds of his constituents, if any compliment was intended to be paid to the intelligence of this part of the State, but the majority of Republicans have determined that they will nominate a Senator for this county who will represent us as Hon. J. L. Graham does his district, and Hon. Russel Errett did your's with ability and credit, and are of the opinion that John F. Dravo, Esq., will go to the State Capital, as our Senator from this district. The people are moving on this subject and you are right when you say Rutan cannot be elected if nominated. Rutan says he can buy enough Democratic votes to pull through if nominated. The Republicans want an honest representative, and Mr. Dravo's nomination is certain. Yours truly, ADVANCE.

The Homestead Act.

MYERS VALLEY, KAN., April 30, 1872.

EDITORS GAZETTE—Gentlemen: Through your widely circulated paper I wish to say a word to the soldiers of Western Pennsylvania. Since the passage of the late "Soldiers' Homestead Act," I have several letters of inquiry asking information concerning this country and the opportunities for locating homesteads; also, requesting me to act as their agent in locating the same. I would say to those contemplating taking the benefit of the Soldiers' Homestead, that there is no part of the west which offers greater inducements to actual settlers than Western Kansas. The climate is unsurpassed. The soil exceedingly productive, especially the bottom lands. Water is abundant and of the best quality. There is a supply of timber in most localities; plenty in some but scarce in others. The best of building stone abounds in all localities. Any one wanting further information can address me by letter. Those wishing me to act as their agent can notify me of the same and I will send them the necessary blanks. Papers friendly to the soldiers' cause will please publish the above.

Address with stamp,

N. C. WHIMS.

MYERS VALLEY, KAN., Pottawatimie county.

MRS. "JENNIE JUNE" CROLY, the pleasant writer and most agreeable lady, has just been elected Vice President of the Sorosis Club, a famed institution which owes its existence to a happy thought of her fertile brain. At present Mrs. Croly is strictly "at home" at her tasteful residence, 156 East Thirty-eighth street, engaged in entertaining a little stranger guest—a "June" blossom.

THE CAPITAL.

Visit of the Japanese to Annapolis.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

The Alabama Claims Question Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, May 4, 1872.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

On motion of Mr. Sumner, the bill prohibiting distinction on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude in the public schools of Georgetown and Washington, was taken up.

Mr. Bayard argued against it as uncalled for, unwise, unjust, and cruel, and predicted that if passed, it would react on the party which placed it on the people.

The bill then went over, and the Senate resumed consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill.

The question was on an amendment offered by Mr. Windom, on behalf of the committee, increasing the subsidy for mail service with Brazil, and providing for semi-monthly mails between New York and Rio Janeiro, which was discussed without action until adjournment.

THE JAPANESE AT ANNAPOLIS.

The Japanese Ambassadors, accompanied by Secretary Robeson, Postmaster General Cresswell, General Myers, Minister Mori, and Gov. Cool, together with a number of members of Congress and ladies, left here for Annapolis this morning on a special train. On arriving there, they immediately proceeded to the Naval Academy, and on entering the grounds were received with the usual honors, and parades and artillery practice by the midshipmen and cadets. The company was escorted through the various buildings containing objects of interests, and in the afternoon were entertained with refreshments. They returned to Washington this evening. The Japanese express themselves delighted with what they saw and with the attentions they received from the officers in charge of the Academy, and were particularly pleased to learn that the two Japanese midshipmen were progressing finely in their studies.

WASHINGTON, May 5, 1872.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

The lowest barometer over eastern Dakota will probably move eastward over the upper lakes region, accompanied by brisk and high winds. Increased cloudiness and possibly threatening weather will prevail from the lower Missouri and Ohio valleys to the upper lakes, and extend to the lower lakes, and clear weather over the New England, Middle and Southern States with south-easterly to south-westerly winds. Cautionary signals are ordered for Milwaukee, Chicago and Grand Haven.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

There is no change in the position of the Alabama question since the recent semi official publication, in which it was said the claims for indirect damages had not been and would not be withdrawn. This government has not in its statement or counter statement asked the tribunal of arbitrators to draw any distinction between the two classes of claims for direct and indirect damages, but both have been submitted together, in the hope that the tribunal will exercise the power conferred upon it to award a sum in gross to be paid by Great Britain to the United States. The suggestion that we would not ask the tribunal for any moneyed consideration for indirect damages, provided Great Britain would not claim compensation for similar injuries under like circumstances, was discussed by prominent gentlemen of both countries before the intimation was made to Great Britain that we would accept it as an easy and satisfactory solution of the present difficulty. It appears from conversations in prominent circles that Great Britain does not deem it necessary to officially make the declaration or to enter into such a stipulation, for the reason that she never admitted the principle of the claims for indirect damages as between nations, and adheres to her position on the question as heretofore expressed.

ALMOST A ROW.

There was a large turnout of colored Odd Fellows to-day to attend the funeral of a deceased brother at Alexandria. There were indications of a disturbance between the excursionists and the people of that city, together with a number of roughs from Washington. Mayor Latham in person headed the Alexandria police, and aided by a number of citizens, prevented a serious riot. There were some thirty or forty arrests. Mayor Richardson, of Washington, had a body of police at the wharf on the return of the excursion, but there was no occasion for arrests.

ADVANCE IN NAVAL RANK.

The Senate Committee on Naval Affairs report adversely on the bill providing for the advancement of Homer O. Blake one grade in the navy by a special act of Congress as without precedent, and saying no promotion should be made and no officer, dismissed by sentence of a court martial, should be restored except on the recommendation of the President, and that the law allowing the advance of thirty numbers in his own grade should be repealed.

MAILS TO CUBA.

The Postoffice Committee report in favor of the renewal of the present contract for carrying mails to Cuba.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 2, 1872.

THE PROCESS OF SELF-PURIFICATION.

It is no doubt a fact that a victorious party like a victorious army has many mercenary camp followers. Men join its ranks for the sole purpose of becoming recipients of its honors and emoluments, and if they happen to be unable to rise from the ranks, or are compelled from any cause, to retire from office they become discontented, fault-finding, inimical. A few months ago the question was seriously mooted how to rid the Republican party of this rubbish. As the patronage of the Government diminished, and sinecure places were abolished, this office-seeking element became so importunate and offensive to the masses, that many people seriously entertained the idea of calling upon the best men and most advanced elements of the party to meet and consult for the purpose of freeing the party from these barnacles.

Fortunately for the party and the republic, this mercenary element could stand it no longer. The thieves and their agents, who in vain knocked at the door of the Treasury, with unfounded claims and other pretexts, and who could neither by purchase, threats nor cajolement, induce the Executive Department to aid them in the consummation of their rascally schemes, quit the Republican party in disgust to build up a new "Reform Party" in conjunction with the Democratis, ex-rebels or any other class of men who would allow themselves to be used to overthrow the Republican organization.

Ex-Mayor Bowen, ex-Auditor John Wilson, ex-M. C. Stillwell, of Indiana, ex-M. C. Grinnell, of Iowa, ex-U. S. Attorney Jesse O. Morton, of Illinois, ex-Assist. Secretary of War Dana, and ex-everybody have, fortunately for the purity of the party, gone to Cincinnati to get up a party for themselves. A mackeral brigade with no one of less rank than a Brigadier General in the batallion. We are not disposed to underrate this movement, because whatever energy and malignity can do, will be done by these men to regain their lost places. The Cincinnati Convention may fairly be called the hungry wolves convention, for it is almost exclusively composed of office-holders, who were removed because they had lost the confidence of the party. Ex-Secretary Cox, ex-Revenue Commissioner Wells, ex-Congressional Printer J. D. Defees, ex-Collector Hiram Barney, and every one of the prime movers of the Convention are in search of office, and a spectacle like this of a mass convention of office hunters has never before been witnessed.

The Republican party, purified by this exodus will undoubtedly enjoy the confidence of the public in a more eminent degree, and retain its power for many years.

CHEAP TEA AND COFFEE.

The House bill placing tea and coffee on the free list, became a law yesterday. Much as some of the professed reformers have opposed this measure of justice to the people, it will be one of the great triumphs of the administration in its fight for the interests of the masses. The prosperous condition of all classes of American citizens has made coffee and tea universal necessities of life. Will any man dare profess the belief that only men of means can afford to use tea and coffee for the domestic table? The experience of all shows that our working men and industrious poor have latterly grown into a general use of these expensive articles, which in other countries are considered luxurious to which poor men dare not aspire.

The tariff on tea at present is fifteen cents in gold, thirty cents actual additional cost to the consumers; coffee three cents, which amounts to about three and a half cents per pound, in currency. All this will be saved after the first of July, and the return to ante-bellum prices on these articles will cause a reduction of expenses to working men that they will readily appreciate, and they will not fail to give the credit where it belongs—to the Administration.

NATIONAL EDUCATION.

There is a very considerable inquiry throughout the country for the last annual report of General Eaton, Commissioner of Education. The Bureau of Education, over which he so ably presides, has grown to be one of the best appreciated branches of the Interior Department. The last admirable report, as sent out to the press in the form of proof sheets, from which information of an invaluable character has already been extensively copied, has brought national educational efforts very prominently before the public. It is now generally conceded that more can be done through the medium of a National Bureau than perhaps in any other way. With public national education in full blast this Bureau will still be indispensable; and until the common schools are universal through all the States there is no more important work than that which is done in pushing statistics and practical measures for introducing general education through the length and breadth of the land. In aid of this there is great need of issuing a large edition of General Eaton's report, and Congress should not be economical in this direction, unless they can consider a few dollars more important than the growth of national knowledge on the subject of the best means of promoting national education.

PROHIBITORY REPUBLICANS.

The only prospect of an appreciable change in the German vote away from the party of the administration, is likely to come of efforts of Republicans to naturalize the Temperance Movement—Schurz to the contrary notwithstanding. They cannot be affected by mere local temperance organization, but if Republicans wish to be relieved of the beer-drinking German vote, they have only to commit themselves to any form of National Temperance Organization. This information has just been obtained from leading Germans travelling through the West and gathering information on living issues of the day. "A word to the wise." AGATE.

AT Senator Sprague's recent reception, Mrs. Sprague is described as having looked magnificently. She does not appear a day older than before her marriage. The dress was a robe pattern of the richest satin. The front breadth of pale blue satin had two scant flounces at the bottom, each about a quarter of a yard deep. These were headed by wreaths of roses and leaves embroidered in silk. The court train of pearly white was fastened to the petticoat on each side by broad perpendicular bands of pale blue satin, running from the waist to the bottom of the skirt. These bands were embroidered to match the flounces. The waist was cut square back and front and partially filled in around the neck with white Duchess lace. The sleeves tight to the elbow had two falls of the same lace. A Watteau pleat from the back of the neck was caught down at the waist and then allowed to flow gracefully into the court train. The train, waist and sleeves were sprinkled with bouquets of roses and leaves exquisitely embroidered.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 43f.

GOLD closed in New York on Saturday at 113¼@113⅜.

THE heavy frosts of Saturday and yesterday mornings, it is thought, seriously damaged the fruit trees.

WE HAVE heard the name of but one Republican gentleman of prominence in this county who will support Horace Greeley by voice and vote.

THE Democrats are in a sore quandary. They do not know whether to toss their hats for Greeley at this early hour or to repudiate him altogether.

WE ARE under fresh obligation to Hon. J. F. Hartranft, Auditor General of the State, for a copy of his report on railroads, canals and telegraphs in this Commonwealth.

THE announcement was made in these columns on Saturday that a call signed by many citizens was about to be made on Hon. Jared M. Brush, for the privilege of using his name as a Republican candidate for Congress from this District. We have the personal assurance of that gentleman that he will not run for the office under any circumstances.

THE ABILITY of women has, on many occasions, been shown and admitted. The impudence and brazen effrontery of the same sex was fully demonstrated at the late Cincinnati Convention, where several embryotic statesmen in petticoats endeavored to obtain seats as delegates. Had they been men and displayed the same amount of impudence, boot leather might have been used to rid the Convention of their annoying presence.

THE CINCINNATI Enquirer, probably, did not intend to let slip so great a truth, when it said:

"Go into the rural districts in the country anywhere, and you will find the feeling for Grant general, or, at least, the Republicans ignorant of any candidate whom they are disposed to support against him."

That is creditable to Grant, in every way. The farmers are thinkers, not politicians nor place hunters. They universally recognize the prosperous condition of the country, and are willing to try the same hands at the wheel for another term. What say you farmers?

SIBERIA, about which little accurate knowledge is now known, is being surveyed by engineers under the auspices of the Imperial Geographical Society of Russia. The novel idea of the survey is that two distinct parties are to perform the work, so that while two surveys are made, the one corps will correct the other in any mistakes that may be made. The scientific developments that may be made will prove of great interest, as the frigid country abounds in fossils, rich minerals, precious stones, rare wild animals, etc., about all of which the exploring parties will doubtless furnish much that is interesting.

RUSSIA grows jealous of the Roman Catholics, and has recently issued an Imperial ukase forbidding open processions of that denomination on stated religious occasions, and likewise the open exposure of the Sacred Host by priests on their way to the bedside of dying members. There is so little difference between the Greek religion, the predominant faith of Russia, and the Roman Catholics that the Czar and his cabinet are constantly on the alert to prevent the encroachment of the latter, who have never been excessively loyal or devoted to the Russian Government, since its policy has been to interfere with the priesthood and subdue the outgrowth of the power of the Church of Rome in the empire.

THE GREAT labor strikes which have been in progress for some time in France, Germany and England still hold out with a degree of persistence scarcely thought possible when they began. In Germany, since the close of the war, the demands of the strikers have already been met by an advance of 25 per cent. in the price of a day's work, and the hours of labor have been reduced from 12 to 10. But this is only the beginning. The agricultural laborers are striving to become land-proprietors, and in other ways to better their condition. Failure to accomplish this result is driving many to America, in proof of which the German arrivals at New York last month—numbering fifteen thousand—may be cited. During the past year, Germany has sent a larger number to our shores than Ireland, and this drain will soon begin to tell on those left behind.

STEADFAST IN THE FAITH.

The idea is very common that men who have been prominent as politicians or statesmen, are necessarily influential men, and carry a great following with them whenever they choose to change their political position. The friends of the Cincinnati movement are just now filling themselves with the consolation this idea affords them.

And yet, no idea could be more erroneous. Men are great and prominent as politicians and statesmen, not because of their personal influence or weight, but solely because of the great public sentiment which stands behind them. So long as they think with the people, and fairly reflect the convictions of those around them, they remain prominent; but as soon as they fail to do this, and turn into another path, they find themselves standing alone and without support.

Men of this class are called leaders, not because they lead the masses into following them through their personal weight and influence, but because they are impelled from behind into a forward position by the irresistible impulse of those who think and act in common. The leaders thus go with the current and are borne on by it; they do not make it, nor can they turn it from its course.

For people will think and act for themselves, in spite of what any man or set of men may do. They read the papers; they digest the facts daily developed; they discuss all political questions by whatever light and intelligence they have; they make up their minds decisively on men and measures; and when they move, the men they put in front are put there solely on account of the harmony existing between them in sentiment, and not on account, as many vainly suppose, of the over-shadowing influence of those they made leaders.

Hence, political "leaders" are the mere exponents of the will of the masses in harmony with them, and are not, in any sense, the creators of the opinions they are called on to represent. So long as they float with the stream they are all right; but the stream is too mighty to be turned aside by them, and flows on as placidly and as strongly as before, whenever a "leader" chooses to change position.

This was fully demonstrated in the case of Daniel Webster. We risk little in saying that Webster was the greatest man, in the political circles, the United States has yet produced. He was a giant in intellect, of commanding person, and magnetic in his attractive influence. He drew men to him by an almost irresistible force; and if ever there was a man who could draw off a following after him, Daniel Webster was that man. Yet when he went off from the old Whig party he took scarcely any one with him. A country school house would contain all those who clung to his political fortunes. Massachusetts almost worshipped him while he acted in common with the majority of its people, just as it has in the past clung to Charles Sumner; but when he set himself in array against his old party, Massachusetts abandoned him: and Sumner, if he does not take the hint in time to fall in with those he has so long trained with, will experience the same result.

It is all folly, therefore, to conclude that, because a number of men heretofore prominent, have gone to the Cincinnati convention, they can carry their old party friends with them. Greeley is by no means so great a man as Webster; and what Webster could not do, Greeley can not. The great Republican host stands unshaken and unbroken; at best, only a few captains have gone off, and these have elected a General, who may have officers enough, but is utterly without an army.

And it is but natural it should be so. Men do not make up their political opinions in a day, nor hold them so lightly as to be able to throw them off in a day. Their convictions are deliberately made up, and are ardently cherished. With many, their convictions are sacred, and are conscientiously adhered to. It is a safe rule never to quarrel with a man about his politics, his religion, or his school of medicine. He chooses these three with care, and is too devoted to them to throw either over, lightly. Preachers change frequently, but they do not carry their congregations with them; doctors, also, sometimes change their systems of practice, but do not take their patients along; and the politician who changes, expecting to carry his old associates with him because HE has changed, will suddenly wake up to a sense of his delusion.

We are not alarmed, therefore, at the array of familiar names at Cincinnati. They represented only themselves, there. Each man there had his grievance. It was like the motley host of outlaws that thronged to David in the Cave of Adullum. Every man that was in debt and every one that was in trouble, rallied to David's refuge in the rocks; but they, and only they, came. They brought no one with them—nothing, in fact, but their griefs and troubles. Let no one, therefore, think that because a few Captains have revolted, the rank and file are thereby affected. They, thank heaven, stand steady and unbroken as ever.

THE BEAVER SENATORIAL FIGHT.

We are loth to take up so much space with a subject in which the majority of our readers find little or no interest, but in justice to ourselves we are bound to notice and refute the statements contained in an article in the Beaver Radical of Thursday. That paper has this to say of us:

"The Pittsburgh Gazette copies the forged telegram of the Argus and endorses it as genuine. The telegram is a forgery, and the editor of the Gazette knows it to be a forgery. And the editor of the Gazette lies when he says that he is assured by reliable gentlemen that it is genuine."

The man who could deliberately write such language, without a scintilla of proof of its correctness, is either a fool or a knave, we shall not attempt to decide which, but let our readers draw their own inference of his true character from what follows: On Wednesday morning last, two gentlemen visited our sanctum, one of whom is a resident of Beaver county, whose word even the cheeky editor of the Radical would not question. The latter drew from his pocket a copy of the Beaver Argus, and directed our attention to the telegram, signed J. S. Rutan, which read as follows:

BEAVER, April 24, 1872.
COL. M. S. QUAY, 42 Girard House, Phila.
"Dravo is out for the Senate. Looks squally for me. You cannot go to the Cincinnati Convention. You must come home immediately."

After reading it for the first time, we questioned its genuineness, and was assured by him that it was an exact copy of the telegram sent, as he had been so informed by a gentleman whose word and character were beyond question. Upon this assurance we printed the item as a morsel of news which would be relished by many of our readers. It appears that it was not relished by the editor of the Radical for some reason, else he would not have allowed his usually serene and placid temper to run away with his usual good sense and judgment. The above statement is true in every particular, and will be sworn to by three persons including the writer of this article, if it shall be necessary. That we "knew the telegram to be a forgery," is simply false; that "it is a forgery" we do not now believe, although the Radical pronounces it such, for our informant is a much more reliable and truthful man than the editor of that paper, and in this we merely state a fact—not in an offensive sense—one which all who know the parties will assent to. If the telegram had been a forgery, the editor could have obtained a statement to that effect from Mr. Rutan, or the telegraph operator, and then there would have been no necessity for the impotent and laughable rage that he exhibits, and he would thus have repelled the only possible conclusion to be drawn from the circumstance, viz: that he had been fairly trapped and exposed, and smarting keenly under the lash of public opinion, he foolishly calls people "liars," and utters threats which he vainly presumed would frighten us into silence. Mr. M. S. Quay will find that his threats are as insignificant as his political character is loathsome to men who are moved by honest convictions, and who respect themselves.

We intend to give him the full benefit of our columns in any attack he has made or shall make upon us, but his mode of warfare shall not divert us from the real issue in the matter, or ruffle our tranquil temper. Nor shall we call the "gentleman from Harrisburg"—or Beaver—if you please—any naughty names, as we object to that kind of argument, as long as we have any facts to hurl at an opponent, and we have a vivid recollection of a former battle in which our bland friend took a part, which ended in a libel suit. What we shall hereafter say, friend Quay, will be somewhat owing to your own movements, it will be parliamentary too, but if it cuts, we want to hear no squealing, and we shall give no excuse for a libel suit. Here is what you say:

"We don't care a continental whether the GAZETTE favors Mr. Rutan or not. It is its right to pronounce judgment upon public men and measures. But when it gets down to the level of the Beaver Argus, the organ of the Cincinnati movement in this county, in a personal warfare upon the editor of the Radical, it has no claim upon our respect or confidence."

Now we would wish to claim the continued respect of our sweet little friend of the Radical, and therefore would beg of him to point out the passage in the GAZETTE where "personal warfare" has been made upon his precious little body or pure character. Has he not made a mistake? We have distinctly confined our words to the matters in discussion, and have avoided the slightest appearance of personality. When we ask if Mr. Quay is allied with Aleck McClure (in the light of Rutan's despatch) in his attempt to disrupt the Republican party in the State, we can find nothing personal or vindictive, or spiteful in the query. It is a plain question, and if Rutan's despatch was genuine, which we still believe, and shall continue to do, until better evidence of its falsity than the editor's word is given, demands of M. S. Quay an answer. The position which he is supposed to hold in the party will not admit of his hobnobbing with such as Aleck McClure at Cincinnati or elsewhere. If he insists upon such a course, we shall move for his displacement from among the leadership of our party. Rutan was right when he telegraphed the little corporal, "You cannot go to the Cincinnati Convention." Now when we ask him if such were his intentions, he fires up, gets awful mad, calls us a liar, and then charges us with making a "personal warfare" upon himself.

One word more, and we dismiss the little fellow, for the present, from our thoughts. He says:

"We can write a chapter of GAZETTE history, which will give it employment at home for some time to come, and will do so if it makes it necessary."

Bah! We only notice this puerile and pusilanimous threat for the purpose of adding, "Lay on, Macduff, and damned be he who first cries hold—enough." The GAZETTE has survived many battles since 1786, has often "let loose the dogs of war," and we promise this Aminadab Sleek a fair field and an open fight if he covets one. He is welcome to publish our history entire, since the date of our establishment, or any single chapter thereof, but he cannot drive or scare us from our purpose, once it has been decided upon. We take up that glove, sir, now fire away, or acknowledge yourself the champion of that discretion which, in your case, is the better part of valor.

MATTERS OF MOMENT.

GRANT'S PECULIARITY.—It would be amusing, were it not so absurd, to note the pratings of penny-a-liner's about President Grant as only a "plain common sense man," when the Presidential office requires a "great statesman." As if the very essence of all real greatness was not this same common sense.

PERSEVERANCE HAS ITS REWARD.—To patient labor belongs success. One of the most notable instances of the triumph of persistent effort over adverse circumstances is furnished in the career of Rev. N. H. McNelie, who was recently admitted to the office of Deacon in the Episcopal Church, England. Mr. McNelie is a son of the Dean of Ripon, and has been blind from his infancy. In spite of this misfortune, however, he made such use of the opportunities afforded him by means of embossed books—classical, mathematical and theological—that he graduated with honors, and took a prize for Hebrew in the University of Dublin. He is now regarded as one of rising men of the Church. His life is a suggestive commentary for young men.

THE SPANISH ELECTIONS.—If the statement of Castelar regarding the recent elections in Spain, be true, the appeal from the ballot to the bayonet was certainly justifiable. He charges that before the elections many Republicans were arrested and imprisoned and others were intimidated from voting; then when the day came regiments were marched in line to the polls and deposited ballots put in their hands by their officers; and that in the end corrupt judges manipulated the returns, so as to exhibit Ministerial majorities, when the reverse would have been shown by a fair count. If King Amadeus is to manage the ballot in this way, the sooner the power is taken from him the better. But this is only one side of the story, and it seems to gain no very great credit in Spain, if we are to judge, from the lack of enthusiasm in the cause of Don Carlos, who is at the head of the revolt against the King's rule.

THE COMING COMET.—People whose nerves have suffered, by the fear that Bellas' comet, was to interfere with our tranquility and possibly utterly annihilate us next August, will hear with lively satisfaction that Prof. Donati of the Royal Observatory of Florence, looks upon a visit from the starry wanderer as an improbability—chiefly because all the latest astronomical developments indicate that the comet has either consumed itself or diffused its material through celestial space; for since 1852 it has not been seen—although previous to that time it was accustomed to swing around the circle regularly every six years. And the Professor further adds, that no comets large or small are visible at the present time though the appearance of some at an early date is not improbable in which case he hopes they will be large ones, in order that scientific investigations regarding them may be facilitated.

OUR STREETS.—That estimable lady who enthusiastically devoted herself to sewing for the heathen in the Fejees, and had her mind so fixed upon the melancholly condition of the juvenile fraternity there, that she failed to perceive the necessities of her own ragged home brigade, has been a fruitful theme of ridicule. Yet are we not working in a parallel line with that good woman, when we enlarge the powers of our Board of Health and serenely sit down to plan for hospitals and such like accommodations, against the time of disease, while at the same time the miasmatic exhalations from the filth in our streets, is poisoning the air and preparing the way for the fatal march of the pestilence. Would it not be wiser to spend a little time and money in removing a fruitful source of disease and thus warding it off, than to calmly await its approach, and then lose, money, and life in battling with it. Will our authorities lock the stable door before the horse is gone?

Our Political Future.

EDITORS GAZETTE: The coming political campaign is of no ordinary interest. Indeed it may be regarded as being even more important in its results than that of any other period in our political history.

The manner in which any work is finished is much more decisive than the mode of its beginning and progression.

The true spirit and almost infinite wisdom in which our Republic was conceived and instituted, and our ability heretofore to repel invasion from without, and suppress rebellion at home, have been circumstances of great weight in favor of Republican government. Not altogether because another Republic was organized and has been conducted with remarkable success for more than four score years, but vastly more for the reason that not one vestige of the abusive reign of absolute rulers was permitted to gain a permanent foot-hold in the "new world," and that a great political organization, founded upon civil and religious freedom, purely republican, has become more powerful than any other nation on the face of, and extends its jurisdiction over one fifteenth of the earth.

Republican movements were delayed and liberal ideas were entertained only as a theory and a picture, awaiting the great ordeal, apparently inevitable, which was to decide whether thirty-six or more separate Commonwealths would be maintained under one sovereign head; whether a government, without a government, except the wishes of the governed, could survive all human accidents and become a success.

Absolute Kings and rulers and their followers, of course deprecated all and anticipated a time—not far distant, when the much hated project would fall to the ground.

The decisive moment came. The ever memorable fifteenth of April, eighteen hundred and sixty-five. The only effectual barrier and bone of contention was removed, and the great verdict sounded out in clarion tones, echoing back to the remotest corner of the globe that enlightened people, organized in mutual societies could govern themselves.

It is no longer a question whether a part of these societies can sever the family ties. State sovereignty, our only impractical idea, and invented by designing deprecators, is among the things of "the shadowy past." Hostile geographical parties have united upon one essential and living principle, the good of the whole people of every section, and of every class.

The last pretext for failure, human traffic, fell with the cause of our misled fellow countrymen, and we have come up to our present status, fulfilling to the letter our great destiny, representing and indicating our form.

Our influence is now becoming practically felt. Republican speeches are delivered with perfect freedom, even in the English House of Lords. Free Governments are springing up all over the earth, copying our example and striving to emulate our principles. Ours is now the examplar of republics. With us stands and permeates, to supercede all other systems, and cast out the abuses of the "old world" or falls, irretrievably lost, freedom unalloyed, liberty untrammelled.

The future, to the true statesman is full of mingled hope and fear. There are no reasons for being very sanguine, or overly assured. New divisions of opinion and interest are arising which will require, the best of leaders to rightly adjust. The existing complications in foreign matters demand prompt but wise and statesman-like action. Much, very much depends upon our coming standard bearers. The ballot is our might, and the only efficient weapon with which to keep down dissensions and in the careful, discriminate use of the elective power, in the hands of each and every citizen, depends the "great future" of our country and the progress of civil and religious freedom against the jealous despot.

CURRENT NOTES.

AFTER the 6th of May, the patent on all rubber goods, known as the Goodyear Patent is extinct.

THERE are 46 lawyers, 38 farmers, 15 merchants, 14 physicians, and 8 editors in the Ohio Legislature.

OVER 20,000 barrels of salt were sold in Sandusky, Ohio, during 1871.

CLEVELAND wants to sell out its $200,000 Work House, as it don't pay the present proprietors.

DURING 1871, 5,800,000 bushels of coal were mined and shipped at Nelsonville Athens county, Ohio. Value at mines, at six cents per bushel, $348,000.

OHIO wool according to the New York Economist, will be worth at clipping time 77½c per pound.

THE total loss by the earthquake in Inyo county, Cal., was $237,000.

IOWA has abolished the death penalty, the act of the Legislature providing that crimes heretofore punishable with death shall be punished by imprisonment for life, at hard labor, in the State penitentiary, and that in case of persons thus sentenced, the Governor shall grant no pardons except on recommendation of the General Assembly.

ON THE occasion of the excavations made lately at Pompeii, by the direction of Signor Fiorella, in the presence of the Grand Duchess of Olga, a table in Greek marble was discovered, decorated by painted figures, which are supposed to represent a scene from the Niobe. There were also found several bronze vases, and a rudder of bronze supposed to have belonged to a statue of Fortune.

A STATE convention of colored men will be held in Utica, N. Y., soon after the Philadelphia convention.

AN OHIO journalist read in another paper a statement to the effect that "Miss Kellogg has a larger repertoire than any other living prima donna," and he considered it his duty as a champion of truth to sit down and write an article on the subject, in which he said: "We do not, of course, know how Miss Kellogg was dressed in other cities, but upon the occasion of her last performance here we are positively certain that her repertoire did not seem to extend out so far as either Nilsson's or Patti's. It may have been that her overskirts were cut too narrow to permit of its being gathered into such a large lump behind, or it may have been that it had been crushed down accidentally; but the fact remains that both of Miss Kellogg's rivals wore repertoires of a much more extravagant size—very much to their discredit, we think."

A NEW journalistic innovation is about to be made in the shape of a daily London paper, to be issued exactly at noon, a portion of its contents to consist of "a reproduction of the opinions of all the morning papers on every subject, classified under distinct and imitative headings, so that the reader can turn immediately to the journal whose opinion he wishes to learn, and so condensed that the essence of the entire press may be obtained in less time than is now occupied in reading one paper." At least that is what the prospectus promises.

LYNN, Massachusetts, is the greatest shoe manufacturing town in the world. Last year the manufacturers turned out over ten million pairs.

THREE million pounds of cotton were shipped from Savannah, Ga., on Friday, for Europe.

HARVEY D. WINSOR, a young man of Detroit, has been informed that mining property in Utah owned by him for five years has developed great richness, and that its estimated value is $2,000,000.

A NUMBER of German merchants and clergymen are seeking to establish in New York an institution for the reception of German immigrants near Castle Garden. About $20,000 has been subscribed and $10,000 pledged.

THE San Francisco Herald of the 19th says: The past three months have been signalized by an activity in everything pertaining to mining matters altogether unprecedented in the history of the business on this coast. Mining shares advanced at a rapid rate, nearly every leading stock dealt in by the Board of Brokers having undergone a marked and, in some instances, most extraordinary appreciation. Productions has been large and steady; investments free, and public confidence immeasurably increased in this branch of business.

FURNACEMEN from all points along the Ohio river have offered six dollars per ton for Iron Mountain ore, and the offers are necessarily declined as the company's contracts are already far ahead of their mining and shipping facilities.

THE Home Government has agreed to guarantee a Canadian loan of £2,500,000 sterling for the construction of a railway to the Pacific, provided Canada should accept the Washington Treaty. That, perhaps, accounts for the ready acceptance of the Treaty by Canada.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL has subscribed a large sum for the erection of a monument to Savonarola, and several communes have followed his Majesty's example.

M. THEIRS has now entered his seventy-sixth year, having been born on the 15th of April, 1797.

THE Sioux Indians are disposed to give trouble on the Northern Pacific railroad. Military protection is required beyond the Missouri.

A TROY court has decided that if a drunken man offers his fare in a street car the conductor cannot put him off.

A WESTERN New York miss unguardedly made the remark in the family circle recently that "when gentlemen eat warm maple sugar it gets into their mustaches and makes them scratchy." Her father is curious to know how she found it out.

MISS MATILDA FLETCHER, a new orator, who has already made a sensation and gained a reputation at the West, is to take the stump for Gen. Grant in Iowa.

A NUMBER of descendants of Jacob Corzine and Freelove Herkbud, who were married in Holland in 1793, claim a strip of land in New York running from Fiftieth to Fifty-ninth street, and from the river six blocks back, worth about $50,000,000. They have engaged counsel to look after their interests.

IT is positively stated, as from authority, that the Pope has finally resolved not to leave Rome. It is added that in the event of his death—he will complete his 80th year on next Monday week—an effort will be made to hold the Conclave, which will have to select his successor, elsewhere than in Rome, in order to avoid the pressure that might be used to choose a Pope favorable to the government of Italy by Victor Emanuel. None but a native Italian can be placed in the chair of St. Peter.

THE toothpick factory in Canton, Me., furnishes more work than all other business in town. Over 100 cords of poplar have been hauled for its use this season, and converted into toothpicks. Each of the machines used will, it is said, make 5,000 toothpicks a minute.

ALBANY has its miser sensation. Catharine Jacobs has just died, after living for a number of years in squalor and misery, leaving about $5,000 in specie for a wandering son who came in from California, but just in time.

AN Albany man recently left $10,000 to be used in translating the Bible into the Japanese language.

THE young Japs at Washington are smitten with a desire to become oarsmen, and have purchased a boat and engaged Dennis Leary, the trainer of the Potomac Club, to give them lessons.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

THE artificial silicated concrete, or "Patent Victoria Stone," which has been largely used in London for building warehouses, &c., has a crushing resistance of 6,441 pounds per square inch, which is greater than that of Peterhead granite.

DR. LEIDY would allow flies under no circumstances to have access to patients suffering from contagious diseases, as he believes they are sometimes agents in spreading infection. He has found gangrene spores germinating from the excrements of a fly that had fed on a gangrene spot, and he has no doubt that if such a fly were to alight on a healthy wound it might communicate gangrene to it.

MR. ELLIOTT COUES has shown, in the American Naturalist, that no two birds even of the same species, build their nests alike. The nests of Bullock's oriole exhibit remarkable variations.

DR. PARRISH is convinced that the infectious material of small-pox is protozoic, and that even great heat often fails to destroy its vitality. He has known the infection communicated from the burning of patients' clothing, though the fungoid matter may have been driven off before it was subjected to the highest heat.

MR. PAPILLON has experimented upon animals, by mixing various minerals with the food of animals, and found that considerable quantities were retained in the bony structure. Strontia and phosphates of alumina and magnesia were detected by analysis of the bones. In all the animals the bones presented a natural appearance, and seemed to possess their ordinary physiological peculiarities.

AN Englishman is running sewing machines with electro-motors, which consist of two sets of electro-magnets; between which oscillates a motor-lever (connected with the sewing machines), and provided by the wires and connecting screws. These electro-magnets, being arranged in two sets, are so connected that the magnets of each set are simultaneously excited, and further connected by a cross-current wire, so that, when the current breaker interrupts the circuit with one set, it shall instantly be completed with the other set, and thus impart to the lever a continuous oscillating movement.

JOINED TO MY IDOLS.

BY JOHN K. HOLMES.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of doin godd things that never will pay
In a worldly sense, as the sharpers would say
About my kind of a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of stroking my beard as it mingles with grey,
And of watching the old folks that try to look gay
Half ashamed of their age, in a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of touching the grave stones that go to decay,
And of calling back memories gone far astray
In the dim lanes of Time, in a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of loving the brook with its tinkle and spray,
And the mossy grey rocks, where the shadows delay
And dapple the chinks, in a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of greasing the moments that slip through the day,
And of letting my fancy brush that as it may
So it pleases my soul in a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of liking my friends, for I'm happy as they:—
They write up their letters—I get up my lay
And feel myself rich in a sly old way.

I have a kind of a sly old way
Of looking at pride in its hollow display,
And of knowing how gold leaf that's laid over clay
Will often peel off in a sly old way.

STATISTICAL.

THE national debt of France is $5,500,000,000; that of England, $3,964,000,000; of the United States, $2,250,000,000; of Austria, $1,555,000,000; of Russia, $1,500,000,000, of Italy, $1,425,000,000; of Spain, $1,185,000,000; of Germany, $850,000,000, and of Turkey, $520,000,000.

IN the annual account rendered by the Bank of Englaod shows that at the commencement of the year 1873 the dividends on the national debt due and not demanded amounted to £914,315. In pursuance of statutes 31 and 48, George III., £876,739 had been advanced to the Government, and £67,576 remains in the hands of the bank.

IT seems to be admitted that the American cotton crop of 1871–2 will not much exceed, if it reaches, 3,000,000 bales, against 4,350,000 bales in 1870–1. This great falling off makes the apparent supply of American cotton insufficient for the wants of the world at the rate of consumption which has been supposed to prevail during the last twelve months.

LUNG DISEASE.

People who suffer from Lung Disease of whatever kind, especially those which have become chronic, need to know one important truth, and that is: that medicine should be taken long enough to renovate the whole system, that is, to renew the tissues and restore the functions to harmonious action. Thousands of sufferers from chronic ailments of various kinds, who feel a languid, lingering sickness nearly all the days of their existence, could be restored to pristine health by the use of a dozen bottles or so of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure at a trifling cost, not to be compared with the benefit derived from it.

Vigorous and robust health are surely of sufficient importance to make those in want of it investigate seriously what we say about Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. A gentleman of great ability and known integrity in writing about this medicine says:

"I am happy to say that my wife has experienced great benefit from this medicine, Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, being nearly restored to perfect soundness in her chest."

FALSE THEORIES OVERTHROWN.

We live under a new medical dispensation, very different from that under which so many of our forefathers died. The sick are no longer bled till they faint, nor gorged with mercury, nor prostrated with violent cathartics, nor blistered on their shaven heads. Ever since the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, renovation and restoration, not depletion and prostration, have been the watchwords of the judicious portion of the profession. The remarkable success of this famous vegetable preventive, invigorant and corrective has worked a complete revolution in the treatment of disease. At first the dogmatic members of the faculty would not believe in it. "What!" they exclaimed, "cure liver complaint without mercury, chronic rheumatism without colchicum, fever and ague without quinine! Impossible!" But the most obstinate incredulity must yield in the end to practical demonstration. From that time to the present, dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers, muscular diseases, nervous complaints and constipation have vanished under the operation of the great specific in at least ninety per cent. of the cases in which it has been used as a remedy for those ailments, while as a preventive of all maladies generated by change of climate, sudden revulsions of temperature, epidemic poison in the atmosphere, and unwholesome water, its beneficial effects have been so obvious and uniform as to secure the most perfect confidence in its properties as an antidote, safeguard and cure.

ST. LOUIS MAGNETIC SPRING WATER.

50 cases just received at
JAS. E. BURNS & CO.'S DRUG STORE,
Corner Penn and Sixth (old St. Clair) streets.

St. Louis Magnetic Spring, discovered 1869, St. Louis, Gratiot county, Michigan.

This most wonderful spring is attracting, from its novelty and peculiarities, the attention of the world. During the summer of 1869, while the Company were boring for salt, a vein of water was struck, flowing with such force as to throw the stream several feet above the surface. It was found to carry a powerful current of Electricity or Magnetism, which marks it as one of the most wonderful of nature's curiosities. The water has been proved to possess most remarkable curative properties, being particularly effective in cases of rheumatism, paralysis, gravel, kidney complaints, dyspepsia and nervous diseases.

DAILY GAZETTE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, Saturday, May 4, 1872.

The week closes without any alteration in the phase of local money matters, the tendency is to still greater ease returns from the shipments of coal and merchandise generally are fast pouring in and our bankers are actively engaged in receiving deposits from those who during the close of navigation were continually applying for loans. The relief from this class of borrowers comes most opportune and will aid in giving impetus to other branches which have to suffer when the coal and iron interests are in need of accommodations. The general business of the city is quite active. The distributive or home trade seems to expand as the season advances, and the prospects for a continuation of the past six weeks activity are encouraging. The period for an active revival of the exports of produce is at hand; this will have the effect of replenishing the purses of our western merchants and enable them to pay off old scores and send in new orders for iron, nails, glass, and such other commodities as the city of Pittsburgh is in the habit of supplying them with. Our manufacturers, particularly the iron and glass men, are kept extremely busy filling the orders sent them and as for the laying in of manufactured stock at the present time, it is out of the question. Should the present activity continue during the next seven months, the year eighteen hundred and seventy-two will be noted as the most prosperous one up to the present time in the history of our city. This will have a most beneficial effect on the value of real estate, and although some parties seem to think the price of property high, it will be a matter of no surprise to us to see it appreciated all around the city within a a very short time to double the price it is now selling for. If it had been asserted ten years ago that property would by this time in the old Ninth ward bring forty thousand dollars an acre, the assertion would have been considered wild and extravagant, yet the fact is before us in the transfers of last week that Mrs. Elizabeth Denny sold to the Pennsylvania Railroad four acres of ground in the old Ninth ward for one hundred and eighty-three thousand dollars. There are still fortunes in real estate, and those having money to spare can not go amiss in investing in it. Our eastern exchanges report their money market as growing easier. The following is the New York bank statement for the past week, which shows a healthy financial state:

New York, May 4, 1872.

Loans, increase	$5,358,400
Specie, increase	212,900
Legal Tenders, increase	1,880,000
Net Deposits, increase	8,497,300
Circulation, decrease	30,200

In the west money matters are also comfortable. The Cincinnati Commercial of Friday says: "In our local market there is not much mercantile demand, and the supply is ample." The Missouri Democrat, of St. Louis, May 3d, says: "There continues to be plenty of unemployed capital which the banks desire to place on good 60 or 90 days paper. There was a slight increase in borrowers yesterday but not as much money was loaned at 30 per cent. as was expected to have been."

New York, May 4, 1872.

Gold firmer, on unfavorable reports regarding the Alabama negotiations and large exports, closing at 113¼@113⅜. Loans at from 3 to 7 for carrying. Clearings $73,000,000. Exports $1,104,860. Governments strong at an advance of ⅛@½. State bonds dull and weak. Money opened early at 6, closing at 4@5, with considerable receipts from the interior.

The Bank statement is favorable, showing the following changes:

Loans, increase	$ 535,840.
Specie, increase	212,900.
Circulation, decrease	30,200.
Deposits, increase	8,497,300.
Legal tenders, increase	1,880,000.

Stocks dull, except Pacific Mail, Western Union, and Cleveland & Columbus and Illinois Central. These were weak in the morning, but about twelve o'clock became steady, and since have been strong. Pacific Mail was very active, and fluctuated largely, the extremes being 74¾ and 76¼. C. C. and I. C. advanced from 38⅜ to 39¾ at the close.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, Saturday, May 4, 1872.

ASHES—Quiet. Common Soda, 5½@6cts; refined, 6½@7; Nitrate, 5; Pots, 10; Pearls, 11.

APPLES—The receipts continue light, and the supply in this market is very much reduced; quotations may be fairly given at $5 to $6 per bbl, for common to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—Common to fair 65 to 70 per gallon; prime to choice, 75@80.

BROOM CORN—Is quiet and unchanged; small sales within the range of 5 to 8 cents, according to quality.

BUTTER—There is a fair demand for the better grades and prices are still maintained; we continue to quote at 28 to 30 cts for good to prime, and 20@25 for fair to medium. Low grade butter is very dull.

BEANS—Scarce and in demand; sales at $2,50 to $3 per bushel.

CHEESE—Sales of new Ohio dairy at 12½ to 14, and new Ohio Goshen at 16 to 17.

CONCENTRATED LYE—$5,50 ₩ case.

CANNED GOODS—Peaches (3 lb cans) $6,00 to $7 per case; Tomatoes $4,50@5; Corn, $5,50@7,00 according to quality and brand.

CRANBERRIES—Quoted at $12@14 for common to fair; and $16@18 for prime.

CARBON OIL—Is firmer in sympathy with crude but the demand continues light—as it usually is at this season of the year.

COUNTRY BACON—Dull; Shoulders 4½ to 5 cts; Clear-sides 6 to 7 cts; Hams 8 to 9 cts. Country Lard, 7½ to 8.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches more active but unchanged; halves, 9 to 10; mixed, 7 to 8; quarters, 6 to 7; peeled, 15 to 20. Apples very scarce; 8 to 9 for fair to prime and 9½@10 for choice.

EGGS—Continue steady with an increased demand, and dimished receipts, prices are firmer but unchanged; we continue to quote at 15 cts—some dealers are now asking 16.

FEATHERS—No 1 live geese feathers scarce and in demand; may be quoted at 75 cts for round lots and 80 in a jobbing way.

FLOUR—The market is firm, and in sympathy with the advices from both east and west, prices are still tending upward; quotations may now be fairly given at $8 to $8,50 for fair to choice spring wheat, and $8,50 to $9 for red winter wheat. Many operators are impressed with the belief that the advance is mainly speculative, and that present prices cannot be sustained. Rye Flour is still quoted at $5,50 to $5,75.

GRAIN—The wheat market is considerably excited under the influence of the advices from the west, and a still further advance is inevitable; the receipts of winter continue very meagre, and the mills are taking all that offers and holders are now able to realize their own prices; it is difficult to give quotations as the operations very light in consequence of a scarcity of stock, but, as already intimated, the tendency is still upward. Oats—The market is quiet and unchanged and the feeling is scarcely as strong as it was early in the week; prices, however, are still maintained and we continue to quote at 51 to 53 cts. The supply of shelled Corn is comparatively light but the inquiry is not very large and prices are unchanged; quotations may be fairly given at 62 to 63 cts, free in elevator. Rye is still reported quiet and nominally unchanged; 98c@$1. There is little or nothing doing in Barley here and the season is about over; we continue to quote nominally at 75 to 80 for spring and 80 to 85 for fall.

GROCERIES—Coffee, in the east, is reported more active and firmer, especially choice grades of Rio, though prices are without quotable change. Sugars are firm and the recent advance in refined goods is well maintained. Choice New Orleans Molasses firm and the supply not only in this market but throughout the country is comparatively light. Rice firmer.

REFINED SUGARS.—Standard Hards, 13; A Coffee, 12; B, 11¾; Ex C, 11⅝; C Yellow and Circle C, 11½. These quotations are for straight brands.

COFFEE.—Rio—Choice, 23½@24; Prime, 22½@23; Good, 22; Fair, 21½. Java, 28. Roasted, pure, 27, lower grades, 25@26.

RAW SUGARS.—Choice New Orleans, 11@11¼; Prime, 10¾; Good, 10; Fair, 9¾. Choice Porto Rico, 10½; Prime, 10¼. Demerara—Choice, 11¾; Good, 11¼.

NEW ORLEANS MOLASSES.—Choice, 70; Prime, 68; Good, 65; Fair, 60.

SYRUPS.—Fancy White Drips, 65; White Honey, 65; Havemeyer & Elder's, 60@62; other grades, from 40@50.

RICE.—Carolina—Choice, 9½; Prime, 9¼; Good, 9. Rangoon, 8@8½. Patna, 8½@9.

SPICES.—Grain Pepper, 24; do Pimento, 16; Cassia, 50; Cloves, 22; Nutmegs, $1,30.

HOMINY—Is quiet and unchanged; sales in a jobbing way, at $4,50@4,75 per barrel.

HAY—Continues dull and with continued liberal receipts both by rail and river; stocks are accumulating, and at present the supply is considerably in excess of the demand; however, holders generally are unwilling to make any further concession, as they are confident that the arrivals will soon fall off again, and in that event the market will do better. We continue to quote at $27 to $33 per ton, for baled according to quality.

MAPLE SYRUP—Is quiet but unchanged; $1,45@1,50 for gallon jugs.

OILS—No. 1 extra lard oil is quotable, in a jobbing way, at 82@83.

POTATOES—Generally reported dull and prices weaker though not quotably lower; we continue to quote, in a jobbing way, at 75 to 85 cts per bushel, according to quality.

PEA NUTS—Sales at 8½@9cts per lb.

PROVISIONS—Plain shoulders, 6cts; sugar cured do, 8cts; ribbed sides, 7½cts; short rib, 8cts; clear, 8½cts. Breakfast Bacon, 10½@11cts; plain sugar cured hams, 11½; do, canvased, 12. Lard; in tierces, 9½; in kegs, 10½; in buckets, 11. Mess Pork, $14½. Dried Beef, 17½. Ham sausage, 10.

RAGS—Sales at 4@4½cts per lb.

SALT—Is still quoted at $1,85 per bbl by the car load, and $2 in a jobbing way.

SEEDS—Clover Seed is scarce in this market and there is considerable inquiry for small lots; we can report sales at $6,25 to $6,50. Timothy Seed is in fair demand and quiet; $3,00 to $3,25. Flax seed is scarce and wanted at $1,85@1,90.

TALLOW—Rough 8¼@9cts

WHISKY—Highwines unchanged at 90 to 92.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

Office of Pittsburgh Gazette, Saturday, May 4, 1872.

Trade has been dull in this market during the past week, and about the only feature we have to notice, is an advance in prices. Crude sold to-day at $3,77½ per bbl at Parker, which is an advance of 25 to 30 cents per bbl within the past few days, and, furthermore, the tendency still seems to be upward. Refined is also firm and higher, but we hear of but very few sales in this market. Spot quoted at 22⅝; May, 23; June, 23¼; July, 23¾—sale of 500 bbls for May at 23. The inquiry is mainly for early deliveries, and refiners, generally, are still unwilling to sell at present prices; it is true refined has advanced, but so has crude, and in consequence, the situation is no better for the manufacturer now, with May selling at 23, than when it was dull at 21.

Receipts of crude for the week, 22,135 bbls; last week, 21,824; January 1st to date, 285,876; same time last year, 316,081. Exports refined this week, 7,746; last week, 8,202; January 1st to date, 160,843; same time last year, 156,769.

There have been some operations in oil barrels within the past week, and notwithstanding the receipts recently have been unusually large, prices are still maintained.

Iron Market.

NEW YORK.—The market for Scotch Pig remains without animation. The stock on the spot is very light, but there is considerable on the way, now nearly due, and consumers do not purchase to any extent, as prices now current are somewhat above their views. We quote spot nominally $53@55, and to arrive $49@51, as to brand, the market at the close having a tendency downward. American continues in limited request, but holders refuse to make any further concessions. We quote No. 1 $49@51, and No. 2 $48@50, with sales of 300 tons No. 1 Crane, on private terms, but prices are fully maintained; 250 tons No. 1 sold on terms not made public. The demand for Rails continues light, but the stock is very much reduced, and the market is steady at full former quotations. We have only to notice sales of 1000 tons 56 lb. English, and 500 do. old Double-headed at a private price. Refined Bar continues very steady here, and firm in all other markets, quite as firm in the primary, as in the distributing centres. Russia sheet is very quiet.—Shipping List.

PHILADELPHIA.—Pig iron is less active and lower. Sales of No. 1 foundry at $50; No. 2 at $47@48; Grey Forge at 46@47; Scotch at 48@49, and Mottled at $46 ₩ ton. Old rails sell for shipment at $53@54 ₩ ton, and nails at $5,65 ₩ keg.

Wool Markets.

NEW YORK.—There is a little more inquiry for all kinds, but business is still restricted on account of small stocks. Prices remain firm, holders evincing no disposition to give way.

PHILADELPHIA.—There is very little doing and prices are lower. The sales include, Ohio, Pennsylvanio and West Virginia, super Saxony fleece at 82@83c; full blood merino fleece at 82@83c; three-quarter blood merino fleece, 80@82c; common fleeces, 75@78c; tub-washed, choice selected, three-eighth grade, 90@91c; well-washed, 84@86c; fair ordinary, 80@81c; low or burry, 75@78c. Domestic pulled, city merino, 75@78c; city super, 76@80c; western, 68@72c. California, fine, fall clip, 37@40c; medium, fall clip, 40@43; burry, fall clip, 30@33c. Colorado and New Mexican, fine and medium, choice selected, 48@52c; fine and medium, washed, 45@50c; common washed, 42@43c; black, 33@35c; unwashed, 25@42. Texas, fine selected, free from burrs, 43@45c; medium selected, free from burrs, 43@45c; medium selected, free from burrs, 42@45c; low, 38@40.—Gazette.

Detroit.

DETROIT, May 4.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Wheat active and advanced; extra $2; No. 1 $1,94; amber $1,85. Corn firm at 54@55c. Oats firm and steady at 44@45c.

CATTLE.

Trade during the early part of the week was very dull, and up to Wednesday afternoon but very few changed hands; and the indications prior to that time were favorable for one of the worst markets of the season. The number of buyers from Philadelphia and New York was below the usual average, but as country buyers put in an appearance, and after a reduction of 20 to 25 cents per cwt. had been made, quite a number of droves changed hands, and to-day there was but a single car load in the pens unsold. Prime 1,400 to 1,500 steers, may be quoted at 6¾ to 7 cents, and good 1,200 to 1,300 averages at 6 to 6¾—last week the same grades brought 20 to 25 cts more, and sold more readily than this week, even at the reduction. Stock cattle are in good demand, and may be quoted steady at 4¼ to 5¼, according to quality and condition.

The shipment of through stock for Monday's market at Communipaw, reached about 140 cars, 62 cars of which were owned by Morris. There were but two or three cars bought here for New York, and the number purchased for Philadelphia was considerably below that of last week.

Following is a pretty full account of the sales since the date of our last report:

SHEEP.

During the first part of the week, as noted in our report of the 1st, there was a dead lock in the sheep trade; buyers and sellers were wide apart in their views as regards prices, and, in consequence, the volume of business was comparatively light. Since then, however, under the influence of more favorable advices from New York, trade has been more active, though holders, in order to effect sales, were obliged to make concessions of from 50 to 75 cts per cwt; many, finding that shippers were in earnest and would not buy unless as above stated, submitted to the reduction; while others refused and shipped on further east. The situation to-day, so far as this market is concerned, is better than it was early in the week, as the pens are pretty well cleared. The eastern markets are reported better and dealers are more hopeful. Prices, as already noted, are lower than last week; and the bulk of the offerings this week were clipped, probably two-thirds, and the wooled were generally poor in point of quality. The former, as will be seen, sold at from 4¾ to 6½, and the latter at 7½ to 9½, according to quality and condition. Following embraces nearly all the sales since and including Thursday.

HOGS.

Trade has been rather slow all week, but, notwithstanding the supply was somewhat in excess of the demand, prices are not quotably lower; the market was devoid of animation and shippers generally bought sparingly, and to-day there are several bunches in the pens unsold. Prime to extra Philadelphia hogs may be quoted at $4,75 to $4,85; good to prime Yorkers, $4,25 to $4,50; stillers, $4 to 4,25. The low price of the product is the main cause of the low price of hogs as compared with other kinds of stock, and before there can be any material or permanent improvement in the one there must be an appreciation in the other, and of this there is but little prospect at present—there is too much of it in the country. Following embraces most of the sales in our last report.

RIVER NEWS.

The river rose several inches during Saturday, but yesterday it was about stationary with five feet nine inches in the channel. Weather clear and pleasant—another heavy white frost on Sunday morning.

The Carrie Brooks, from Wheeling, arrived here as usual. She reports having met the Comet near Georgetown, all right.

The Bellevernon and Lucy Bertram are both over due, having been delayed by low water.

The Wild Duck arrived from Buffington on Saturday, with a tow of stoves; she was obliged to leave her tow of iron ore there for want of water.

The West Virginia arrived and departed as usual.

The Messenger for St. Louis, and the steamer Murrillo for New Orleans, departed yesterday, with all the freight they could take on the water.

The Mollie Ebert and Exchange, from St. Louis, loaded mainly with iron ore, are en route for this port.

The St. Louis Democrat thinks Capt. R. C. Gray would make an excellent representative in Congress, and suggests the propriety of sending him to Washington in that capacity. Captain Gray is deeply interested in the navigation of the western rivers, and in him steamboatmen would have a warm friend—one that they could rely on all the time.

—A Cairo dispatch says: Captain Connelly and party have found four more bodies of the Oceanus, but the name of only one was ascertained. This was F. M. Stech, keeper of the lions. All the bodies are buried near where they were found. Another was found at Hickman to-day, on which the coroner found $1,900 in a pass book. Two names in the book showed the name to be German, but did not give the initials. Mr. Carlos, of Metropolis, Illinois, got on the Idlewild, at Smithland, Kentucky, to-day, and when coming out of the Texas, at Paducah, his hat blew off. In attempting to catch it, he knocked a book out of the side of his pocket into the river, which contained $610, a lot of notes, drafts and country orders. $240 of the money fell on deck, and was recovered, all the rest was lost. The Mary Miller was well laden. The Exchange has 450 tons for Pittsburh and way.

—A St. Louis special to the Cincinnati Commercial contains the following: "The body of Capt. S. M. Worsham arrived last night from Columbus, Kentucky, where it was found, and will be buried at 2 P. M., to-morrow. The body is much swollen and disfigured, but was recognized by two warts on the face, and his name which is stamped on his clothing. Captain Worsham had his life insured for $5,000, and leaves his family in comfortable circumstances. Captain John B. Davis has resigned the command of the S. S. Merrill, and has been succeeded by Captain William Thompson. Clear and cool. Business fair. Receipts of produce, 5,000 tons. The wharfage question will be argued to-morrow. The City of St. Louis against the steamer Susie Silver is made the test case.

—The St. Louis Democrat of Friday says: The Mary Davage, Captain G. W. Motheral, Robert Baxter, clerk, got in from Pittsburgh on Wednesday evening, and is discharging above the bridge. She brought two barges, and nearly 800 tons freight, consisting of iron nails, glassware, &c. The running time from Pittsburgh was less than seven days, hard to beat by a towboat. We remember, though, that Hare's Glendale, with that sterling Democrat, Mellon, in the office, came around in five and a half days, towing a barge. This included all delays, but she had no way business.

We also clip the following from the same paper: "Mellon of the Yaeger is very desirous of being present at the coming Democratic Convention in St. Louis, but R. C. Gray, the veteran politician from Pittsburg, will be at home before the deplorable occasion will be inaugurated. Why does not the iron and coal district send Gray to Congress? He would be a worker there.

—"Look Out" writes from Louisville: We rarely have more than three or four boats in port at a time, while at St. Louis the other day some seventy-two were counted. The people of that locality encourage and foster, and protect the steamboat interests, which are never permitted to be subordinated to the railroads.

—The following named boats have been inspected by the Local Inspectors from Wheeling, who are now in Charleston for that purpose: Mocking Bird, Bettie Gilbert, Ianthe and Pierrepont.

—The Iron Mountain Ore Company have shipped the present season by river 50,000 tons of ore, and about 20,000 now remains on the bank awaiting shipment.

—The Sioux City Journal, April 30th, says: Ed. Comings left for St. Louis on Sunday with the intention, it is said, of buying the Andrew Ackley, if her owners consent to sell her.

—A large number of steamboat roustabouts are rousting about Sioux City, out of funds and out of work.

—St. Louis collected $7,621.05 wharfage for month of April. The total number of arrivals of steamboats and barges during the same time was 515.

—Captain Frank Lehkie has bought the hull of the old steamer Baltic, which he will use for a coal barge.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Drs. Jordan and Davieson,
Beg to inform their friends, patients and the public generally, that owing to their increase of practice they are compelled, reluctantly, to discontinue their branch office in this city, and in future are to be consulted only at their HEAD OFFICE,

DR. A. SLEE, No. 264 PENN STREET.—Longer in the practice of Special and Chronic Diseases than any physician in the city so advertising. All forms of venereal diseases cured in the most thorough and satisfactory manner. Spermatorrhœa or nervous debility, producing blotches, debility, dizziness, nervousness, dimness of sight, noises in the head, indigestion, despondency, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, and which unfit the victim for business or marriage, and ultimately causing consumption and insanity, are permanently cured. Long standing cases of diseases skillfully treated, and the effects of mercury completely eradicated.
The Doctor gives particular attention to female complaints, Sterility, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and all irregularities giving annoyance and trouble. A medical pamphlet is published in plain language strictly confidential. Sent by mail for two stamps. Correspondence strictly confidential. Hours—8 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays excepted. JOB MOSES' SIR JAMES CLARKE'S FEMALE PILLS.—These invaluable Pills are unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. They moderate all excesses and remove all obstructions from whatever cause. To MARRIED LADIES they are particularly suited. They will in a short time bring on regularity, and although very powerful, contain nothing hurtful to the constitution. In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affections, Pains in the Back and Limbs, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics and Whites, they will effect a cure when all other means have failed. The circulars around each package give full directions and advice, or will be sent free to all writing for them, sealed from observation.
SPECIAL NOTICE.—It is the fate of every valuable medicine to be COUNTERFEITED. Job Moses' Sir James Clarke's Female Pills are extensively COUNTERFEITED. The genuine have the name of "JOB MOSES" on each package. All others are worthless. Dishonest Druggists endeavor to sell the counterfeits to make greater profits.
N. B.—In all cases where the GENUINE cannot be obtained, One Dollar enclosed to the Sole Proprietor, JOB MOSES, 18 Cortland street, New York, will insure a bottle of the genuine, containing Fifty Pills, by return mail, SECURELY SEALED from any knowledge of its contents. ja4:v17-eow-W

The Opera House.—"The Necromancer of Egypt" has had a very successful run during the past week, and, the attendance not diminishing in the least, it may be safely presumed that the coming week will bring success none the less gratifying. Aside from the scenic effects there can be but little said with regard to the merits of the piece, but they of themselves are well worth seeing.

Penn Avenue and Hand Street Corner Property at Auction.

See McIlwaine's auction advertisement for particulars of this very important sale on the premises to-morrow afternoon. Its advantageous situation in the immediate business readjustment of Pittsburgh is so eminently conspicuous, that no word of suggestion is required. Already are both these thoroughfares attracting attention for business locations by the immense travel upon them. The Tripartite Bridge below and the railroad centre above, must make Penn one of the greatest business avenues of our city, at this central point, which also will convert Hand into a second St. Clair street.

It is, or should be.

A subject of special felicitation that at last there is established in this city a respectable firm of ingenious and skillful designers, engravers and delineators. Messrs. Wm. Adrian, W. A. Taylor and Emilie Le Fleur, under the firm name of Adrian, Taylor & Le Fleur, on the third floor of Mellon's building, where orders for all kinds of designs, engravings or delineations for illustration of books, cards, advertisements, maps, checks, drafts and drawings of every variety, will be promptly and skillfully executed, and satisfaction guaranteed. An establishment like this has been long needed, and we doubt not will be extensively patronized. See their advertisement in this paper.

Fire in Lawrenceville.

About five o'clock on Saturday morning the saw mill belonging to Michael McCullough, Jr., on Wainwright's Island, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was sounded from box No. 72, corner of Butler and Twenty-sixth streets, and the department were promptly on the ground. A sufficient amount of water could not be obtained from the fire plug, and water had to be obtained from the river. Notwithstanding the earnest efforts of the firemen the building with everything it contained was entirely destroyed. The amount of the loss was not learned, but it is fully covered by insurance. Mr. John S. Cowen was the lessee of the mill, and his loss, principally in machinery, will perhaps amount to five hundred dollars. He thinks the mill was set on fire, as the engineer has always been very careful. This is the third time that the mill has been burned.

Pleasant Anniversary Exercises.

Yesterday afternoon the eighteenth anniversary of the Sunday School connected with the Central Presbyterian Church, Allegheny City, was held. The exercises, which were all of an exceedingly interesting and instructive character, were participated in not only by the home school, of which Mr. Samuel R. Stewart is Superintendent, but also by the Central Memorial Mission—conducted under the auspices of the congregation, and under the immediate superintendence of Mr. I. W. Grubbs—as well as by the children of the Allegheny Home for the Friendless. Addresses were made by Rev. Mr. [illegible] church. The programme [illegible] ing by the children, the recitation of the Commandments by the children of the Home, and other services alike interesting and profitable. Both the home and the Mission schools were reported in a prosperous condition.

The County Superintendency of Public Schools.

There is perhaps no office in the county which calls for a more judicious filling than that of Superintendent of our public schools. This important selection rests entirely with and upon the directors of the various school districts of the county outside of Pittsburgh, and the people look to them to discharge the duties imposed well and faithfully. All are immediately concerned and interested in the office, and the officer who takes upon himself the very responsible obligation of discharging properly the important duties pertaining to it, should be a man of brains, education and large executive ability. The election will take place to-morrow morning in the hall of the Fourth Ward Public School house, and its result will be awaited with much anxiety by the friends of free and popular education. Among the prominent candidates thus far named for the very important trust, none stand higher in public estimation than Prof. Samuel Andrews, principal of the Chartiers Schools, an educator of years experience [illegible] attainments and very decided [illegible] He is young and [illegible] executive ability. [illegible] energetic and would bring with [illegible] to the position a high moral character for virtue and sobriety. The election could fall on no worthier person, nor upon any gentleman more thoroughly qualified for the office. If politics were permitted to prejudice the directors in their selection of a Superintendent, we might say that Prof. Andrews is a staunch and consistent Republican, never having voted with any other party. His election would afford much satisfaction to many friends of education throughout the county.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Lyon & Co.'s Brick Works Burned.

Yesterday morning the steam brick works of Messrs. James B. Lyon & Co., at Minersville, were almost totally destroyed by fire. The main building—a shed about three hundred feet in length—was discovered to be on fire at five o'clock in the morning, and an alarm was sounded from box 81. The department responded promptly, but there being no water to be had, the engines could not go into service. The entire works, with the exception of three drying sheds, were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $40,000, upon which there is an insurance of only $6,000. The machinery, which is very valuable, is almost a total loss. The works were considered the most extensive in this section of the State. The cause of the fire is still a mystery, but is supposed to be attributable to incendiarism, as there had been, we are told, no fire about the works since five o'clock Saturday evening.

A MUCH ABUSED HUSBAND.

Matrimonial Infelicities Extraordinary.

In the Common Pleas Court on Saturday, the petition of Alexander Otterson, praying for divorce from Mary Jane Otterson, his present wife, was presented, and a subpœna awarded returnable on the first Monday in June. Accompanying the petition was a bill of particulars, setting forth the grounds upon which the divorce is asked, viz: harsh and cruel treatment on the part of the wife; such as throwing a butcher knife at petitioner; threatening to take his life; spitting in his face, and striking him in the face; making criminal information against him; locking him out of the house, and refusing to discharge the [illegible] ordering him to leave the house, [illegible] she would have nothing to do with [illegible] she would pay him back all the [illegible] received from him, and refusing to acknowledge him as her husband. This state of affairs, it is alleged, has been kept up for a number of years.

A McKEESPORT SENSATION.

The Story of a Haunted House.

McKeesport seeks notoriety in circulating a "haunted house" story that gotten up after the usual sensational dime novels style, but bears upon its face the appearance of those stories which are usually spoken of as "too thin." The house that the ghost has selected in which to hold his midnight carousings, is an old, uninhabited building, standing far from any other house. In the silent watches of the night when the world is hushed in slumber and every respectable person ought to be bed, a priest is heard to chant the solemn mariage ceremony to which some invisible persons respond. The whole performance is accompanied by the low sweet music of a harp which is plainly seen, though the performer is invisible. Great effect is added to the scene by the appearance of a young man who rushes madly about with a stiletto in his hand exclaiming "I leve her, I hate her," &c. Then a voice is heard to shout "Lovely creature, thou must die."

Then, our authority states, a beautiful creature was seen rushing forth from the house with blood trickling her snow-white dress, towards tree, where disappeared. Whether she climbed the tree is not stated.

The "oldest inhabitant" is then trotted out and explains the mystery by a story of a beautiful young girl who married to a dreamy-eyed delicate youth in this very house. The young lady was never seen after she entered the house.

The local papers promise "full particulars in our next," and if the public can suppress their curiosity for a week an interesting ghost-story will doubtless be laid before them.

The story, if properly worked up, would afford a charming sensation for the New York Weekly, or abundant material for a continued story in the Ledger.

BREVIITES.

PIC-NICS are now in order.

THE Parks were crowded yesterday.

SEVERAL dividends are announced in this morning's paper.

HUNDREDS were taking a view of the city from Mt. Washington yesterday.

THE receipts at the Mayor's office, during the past three months, have been $8,579.75.

THE cool weather has had the effect of keeping boys from bathing in the water we drink.

THE Pittsburgh Councils will meet next Monday in their new chambers, in Municipal Hall.

McKEESPORT, flushed with the success of its former attempt, is trying its hand at another breach of promise case.

A STATED meeting of the Board of Controllers, of Allegheny City will be held at City Hall to-morrow evening at 7½ o'clock.

A SLIGHT fire occurred at the Superior Iron Mills, Allegheny, yesterday, doing but little damage. No alarm was sounded.

THE alarm of fire which was sounded about noon in Allegheny on Saturday was caused by an irregularity of the machinery or the wires.

REPORTS are again in circulation to the effect that the small-pox is on the increase in Allegheny. One house, it is said, contains three cases.

THE beautiful Monitor Grove is now ready for pic-nic purposes, as the advertisement of Mr. Thos. W. Baker, in another column, announces.

THE man Hiltebidal, whom we mentioned as the principal one burned in the explosion at the American Iron Works, Ormsby, died on Sunday morning of his injuries.

Before Alderman Smith, of Allegheny, Mary All made information against Olive Brown for surety of the peace in threatening to kill her with a knife. A warrant issued.

THE School Directors will meet next Tuesday May 7th, in the hall of the Fourth ward school-building, on Penn street, for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent.

"WOMEN need the Responsibility of the Ballot" is the subject of an address to be delivered next Tuesday evening, at Apollo Hall, New York, by Miss Helen P. Jenkins, of Pittsburgh.

LOUD complaints are made about a gutter on Liberty street, near the Union Depot. The oder which arises from the above mentioned locality is, to say the least, not the most fragrant.

ABOUT one o'clock yesterday morning, an alarm of fire was sounded from box 65, Allegheny, occasioned by the burning of a small "shanty" on Superior street. Loss about fifty dollars.

ON Saturday morning Esquire Heisel received his new papers as Alderman. He will not, however, enter upon the duties of his office for a few days yet, as a trip to the west is in contemplation.

A RESIDENT of Twenty-first street, South Side, named Joseph Shook, while working on a new building, had his leg broken in two places, on Friday, and both below the knee, by lumber falling on it.

THE Allegheny lock-up has been thoroughly cleansed and white-washed. The much improved condition of this popular resort will doubtless attract crowds of pleasure-seekers during the summer season.

THE FOOTRACE that was to come off between residents of Pittsburgh and Birmingham, Clark and Metz, will not come off, at least for the present, as they could not agree upon the time, and the stakes have been returned.

THE McKeesport Paragon comes to us this week enlarged by two columns and presenting a very much improved appearance. The fact proves that the enterprise of the editor has been rewarded by the success of his paper.

SPORTS on Penn avenue will hereafter be watched by an extra force of policemen who will endeavor to place a check upon their fast driving. The Mayor found this to be necessary in order to protect the new wooden pavement.

MR. G. W. COFFIN, of the First ward, returned from a trip to the South on Saturday, where he had gone to recruit his health. His many friends will be glad to learn that he is in a fair way of recovering from his long and serious illness.

A [illegible] car on the Pittsburgh [illegible] Railway [illegible] heny [illegible] the bottom of [illegible] injured.

THE Allegheny County Prison Society will hold its Sixth Anniversary this evening, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. Addresses will be made by Major Frew, Rev. Milligan, Chaplain of the Western Penitentiary, and others.

A LAND slide occurred about noon, yesterday, on the Panhandle Railroad, a short distance east of Steubenville. A number of men were immediately put at work, and in a few hours the track was cleared. No delay was caused to the passenger trains.

A LITTLE BOY, a son of Robert Ray, Jr., in attempting to jump from an outbuilding to another, on Boyle street, Allegheny, fell with his face against the eave, cutting a severe gash in his lower jaw. The wound was dressed by Dr. John Hamilton.

THE Rev. S. P. Linn, whose trial before the Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, for alleged immoral and unministerial conduct, caused so much excitement [illegible] of years since, has [illegible] a couple [illegible] accepted a call to the pastorate [illegible] Presbyterian Church at Shamokin, Pa., and entered upon his duties.

THE boat race which was rowed last Saturday between Smith and Powell resulted in an easy victory for the former, though Powell started out with every prospect of winning. Smith, however, came in about a dozen lengths ahead, and the referee gave him the race. The time was, Smith, 27:13, and Powell, 27:43.

THE Smoky City Lodge of Good Templars will hold a public installation of officers, on Tuesday evening, May 7, at G. A. R. Hall, 102 Fourth avenue. In exercises such as addresses, vocal and instrumental music, select reading, &c., will be given, in addition to the regular installation ceremonies. The public are invited to attend.

Henry Deibner made information against a man named Emund, before Alderman Smith, of Allegheny, charging him with assault and battery upon a son of the deponent. He alleges that the defendant attacked his boy, striking him with an axe handle, and that he was so injured that he is now under medical treatment. Warrant issued.

NOTWITHSTANDING the small pay which our policemen receive, there are few cities which can boast of as fine and intelligent a set of officers as those composing Mayor Blackmore's force. The Mayor deserves the highest credit for the judicious selections which he has made, and the eliminating policy which he has hitherto pursued, until he has a force now of which little can be said except in the way of commendation.

HONCK'S BREWERY, East Birmingham, was stormed on Saturday evening by a party of youths, who probably thought the historic "buck," of bock beer notoriety, was their victim. However, that was not the case; for the Burgess held the only one of the party caught in the sum of $500, to answer the charge of destroying, maliciously, the property of another. His trial will come off at the next quarter sessions.

THE Allegheny County Prison Society will hold its sixth anniversary this evening, in the lecture room of the Young Men's Christian Association, corner of Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, Major William Frew presiding. Rev. J. L. Milligan, chaplain of the Western Penitentiary, and others, will address the meeting, presenting the work—its past, present, and future. Allegheny Institute Club will find the music.

THE break which occurred in the upper reservoir a few days ago was repaired but a new break of a very alarming nature was discovered about four o'clock on Saturday afternoon. It is feared that unless the greatest care and economy is observed in the use of water the whole district which is supplied by this reservoir may be destitute of water. As about two-thirds of the city is dependent upon this reservoir for water, the result of its failure would be fearful.

THE everlasting Text-book fight, on what books shall be used for the next three years in the Common Schools of this city, will be decided to-morrow. Judging from what we learn from those who pretend to know, there will be some changes made. The members of the Central Board, who have the say what books shall be used, should have the different applicants bound in a contract, that the successful book publishers should be allowed to charge no more than a fair profit on their book. As it is now, book publishers make about two hundred per cent. on their books. No wonder the fight is waged with such fierceness.

KITTANNING boasts of having the best base ball club in this section. The "Amateur Club," which has become well known on account of the proficiency of its members in the art of ball tossing, has been reorganized, with Mr. Alex. Crawford, as Captain. Mr. P. W. Hays, who is known as an exceedingly skillful and expert player, has consented to fill his old position, and with the assistance of Messrs. Cowell, Bowman, and others, the Kittanning boys think that they can make matters lively for any club that may come in their way. We would like to see the "Enterprise" or "Oakland" pitted against them, as an interesting game would, no doubt, be the result.

TITUSVILLE'S ROSY HOPE.

The Iron Center of the World—Petroleum and Iron Manufacture.

A complete revolution in the iron and petroleum trade is casting its shadows before, says the Titusville Herald, and the next few years may see an active demand spring up first for all our benzine and tar, and second for petroleum itself for converting ore into pigs. The experiments in St. Louis, as also in England, with the new process, have proved eminently successful, and have established beyond doubt, that the quality and quantity of iron is materially increased by the use of petroleum for fuel; the time in conversion is also greatly diminished and the gain over that of any other fuel is so marked that in St. Louis the extensive rolling mills have permanently adopted the new principle. The quality of iron is so much enhanced by the new process that those works first adopting it will certainly take the lead in the trade.

If the process pays in St. Louis, at so remote a distance from the wells, it will pay much better in Titusville, where we are surrounded by petroleum fields, and, after the Buffalo road is built, we can procure Lake Superior iron cheaper than any point south of us. This matter would appear to be of such importance to the future prosperity of the region, that no time should be lost in bringing it to a practical focus. If the whole of our product can be utilized here at four to five dollars per barrel, why should we longer remain at the mercy of outside speculators and market manipulators, who spasmodically and effectively depress the prices to ruinous figures. The results already attained warrant the belief that Titusville may eventually become the iron centre of the continent, if our enterprising citizens and capitalists take the lead and fully open up to the world this new and most important branch of industry.

DEMOCRATIC-GREELEY MEETING.

Lawrenceville Democracy—Cincinnati Endorsed—"Greeley and the Nayger."

As would appear from the report below, which has been furnished us by a friend who happened to be at the meeting, the Democrats of Lawrenceville are the first to publicly show their hands in the matter of the endorsement of the Cincinnati convention ticket. Whether they let their ardor in the "anything to beat Grant" movement got the better of their sober second thought we don't know, but they will have time enought to consider the matter hereafter. It was Friday evening last, just after the news had got abroad that Horace Greeley and Gratz Brown were the Cincinnati nominees for President and Vice-President respectively; that a select coterie was assembled at the office of Sill's Real Estate agency. Our friend who gives us the particulars of the affair, dropped in and was mistaken by one of the parties for a representative of the Post, and as such was introduced. The feelings of the assembled Democrats who have so long been without an opportunity for a participation in the loaves and fishes of the public crib, were, as might be expected unusually high, and a proposition for the organization of a meeting of endorsement of "any thing—to beat Grant" was promptly executed. Anticipation of the blanched cheeks and fear stricken countenances of the straight-out Republicans when they heard the news from Lawrenceville next morning, through the medium of the Post added to the flame burning in breasts of the "outs" and they precipitately went to work to pour red-hot shot into the Republican ranks.

On motion M. McCullough Jr., Esq., was called to the chair, William Reardon was elected Vice President and Thomas R. Sill appointed Secretary with the Post representative as assistant.

Mr. McCullough on taking the chair returned thanks, as usual, and said that under ordinary circumstances he would have declined the position; but this was a time for action and he would not throw a straw in the way of prompt advance upon the Grant stronghold. He was not given to public speaking, but on this occasion would express briefly, but emphatically, his views, as every honest citizen should. [Applause.] The ancient enemy of the Democracy was in a precarious position. "In fact," said the speaker, warming up, "we have him in 'chancery,' and I for one go in for giving him our best licks." [Loud applause.] (We may here state that as the proceedings progressed additions were made to the meeting, all classes being represented, and the deepest interest was manifested.) "Although," said the speaker, "Horace Greeley, who has been a life-long opponent of Democratic principles, has been nominated by our friends at Cincinnati, we should forget and forgive the past, and remember only that he is now the foe of our adversary, and is the 'thing' going to beat Grant."

Amid the applause which followed this sentiment some signs of disapprobation were manifested, and a voice evidently from a gentleman of Irish extraction was heard exclaiming:

"What! Graley and the nayger?" [Laughter and applause.]

With a withering look in the direction of the voice, the President was about making an emphatic protest against the interruption, but was prevented by loud cries of proceed! Go on! &c. The speaker continued: Let us elect Greeley and Brown and the Democracy will again assume control of the government and run it as in its former days of glory. We will get rid of this infernal revenue system. Voice—Yust wait now Mr. McCullough, and don't you mind if Horace Greeley was made President he shtops the lager beer. [Laughter.]

This was met by cries of "we won't let him," "put him out." &c.

When quiet was restored, Mr. McCullough continued, claiming that Horace had seen the error of his ways, politically, agriculturally, and also in the matter of whisky and lager, and would be found all right if the Irish and Germans help to elect him.

The President took his seat amidst applause, and calls were made for Mr. Reardon. When that gentleman was induced to arise, which he did with his usual precision, he was warmly greeted. After getting his throat cleared with some difficulty, he commenced with measured dignity:

"May it please your Honor." This little faux pas was received with roars of laughter and on its subsiding the President of the meeting protested against being addressed in any such style. He was no Barnard or Cardozo and would not be addressed as belonging to that class. The error and its consequences gave Mr. Reardon time to collect his thoughts. He then proceeded with an argument in favor of Horace and claimed that if his Democratic friends would think over the matter a little they would find the sage of Chappaqua was not as black as he had been painted. In fact before the speaker got through, he appeared to have come to the conclusion that the Cincinnati nominee was a marvellous proper Democrat of the old school.

An allusion to the honesty of Horace, however, brought out an inquiry from an Irishman as to how Mr. "Graly" had acted when Treasurer of the relief fund for starving Ireland.

"As to this point Mr. Reardon [illegible] ance that being in his [illegible] expressed ignorance Greeley [illegible] manhood days, but Horace [illegible] was, he claimed, universally believed to be an honest man.

The celtic gentleman expressed very strong doubts on the point, and would have proceeded to argue the question but was cried down.

In concluding Mr. Reardon said that he would strongly advise the Democracy to support Greeley and Brown and take the chances as the best thing they could. If after trial he went back on them, and the speaker was charged with having supported a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, he (Reardon) would do the best thing under the circumstances—plead nolle contendre.

Mr. Sill was called upon but declined to make a speech, but would say, however, that he was for "anything to beat Grant," and would therefore swallow the Cincinnati ticket.

Other gentlemen were called in but declined, and by this time the room had become full, and arguments for and against the acceptance of the ticket were going on all round. It finally got so boisterous that a resolution endorsing the ticket was put through, though not without opposition, and the meeting adjourned.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

Wilhelmina Pickert came before Alderman Neubert and preferred a charge against Adam Weisner, for surety of the peace. The prosecutrix alleged that the defendant has been boarding for some time at her house, at Minersville. He had promised to marry her, but recently she learned that her Lothario was already the lawful husband of another woman, who was still living. The developement of this fact so incensed Wilhelmina that she at once ordered the gay deceiver and would-be bigamist to leave her house and nevermore allow himself to come within the range of her vision. This polite invitation did not seem to accord with the man's view of hospitality, and he reached for a huge butcher knife—which, as the woman avers, has in days gone by carved the bread and meat which he ate, but for which she never received the least compensation—and threw the murderous weapon at her, the point striking her hand and severely cutting one of her fingers. Then, with numerous threats, he packed up his satchel and left. Weisner was arrested, and committed to jail for trial at Court.

Emma Derringer borrowed a set of curls from Mollie Oliver, which the latter valued at twenty-seven dollars, and which, as she alleges, Emma refused to returned. 'Squire Neubert's officer started out Saturday afternoon to look for Mollie.

Wm. Vaugher last week had occasion recently to lodge a night in the taveren kept by Mrs. Kirk, at Oakland. Early in the morning, according to an information made before Alderman Neubert, the landlady entered her lodger's room, and took therefrom two coats, the only garments of that denomination of which he was possessed. She said Vaugher's son (a lad of twenty-six summers) owed her a board bill, and the father of the delinquent boy should only recover his property when he paid the amount of the bill. Explanation and entreaty were alike unavailing—the woman was determined, and the old gentleman was obliged to leave the house coatless. Mrs. Kirk will have an opportunity to explain to 'Squire Neubert.

Mayor Blackmore disposed of seventeen common cases Saturday morning, and Mayor Callow but one less. Delegates were sent to the Work House from both sides.

Mayor Callow had nine youths before him on Saturday morning, ages ranging from fifteen to nineteen years, on charge of disturbing a wedding on Cherry street, Allegheny. They were fined ten dollars and costs each.

Before Alderman Strain, Patrick Hughes came on Saturday, and made three informations against the Schattway family. The first charged Anthony S. with larceny by bailee, in taking possession of a cow valued at $50, and belonging to dependent, which he refused to restore to the proper owner. The second information was against Anthony's brother John, charging him with keeping a ferocious dog which had bitten dependent on the leg; and the last alleged that John and a third brother, Casper, had threatened his life. The three were arrested, Anthony gave bail for trial, and the others will have a hearing this evening at seven o'clock. The parties to the suits reside in Ormsby.

Officer Cox happened to be promptly on hand when a man was put out of Odd Fellows Hall, for disorderly conduct, during the progress of a ball in that institution. After keeping him over night, Burgess Dressel charged him five dollars for his "disorder" and advice.

As officer Chambers, of East Birmingham, was in the act of arresting a disorderly character, four men, named Flackinger, Decker, Jarrett and Israel, interfered and assisted him to effect his escape. The four, however, were arrested for their trouble, and fined $10 each, and costs—which was probably more profitable than the arrest of the single individual would have been.

Sunday morning the Central Station-house was characterized by the usual first-day-of-the-week activity of business. Mayor Blackmore had before him forty-four victims of Saturday night revelry, the sentences in the various cases ranging from one dollar and costs up to ten days to jail.

Mayor Callow administered justice to six common cases yesterday morning.

Three boys named Daniel Morgan, David Harris and Fred. Cooper were yesterday fined ten dollars and costs each by Mayor Callow for acting disorderly in the building attached to Union Skating Park.

Dennis Herbert, George Cooper and Richard Thomas were yesterday fined five dollars and costs for gambling on the bank of the Allegheny.

Mayor Callow yesterday fined S. Dutchley and Suphley Fence fifty dollars and costs each for acting in a disorderly manner. In default of payment they were committed to the Work House for six months.

The Finest Suits, the best fits, and the most complete satisfaction guaranteed in every particular, not excepting that of price—which is such an important consideration to one purchasing a new outfit of clothing—at the great emporium of Urling, Follansbee & Co., southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street. It is unnecessary for us to attempt to enumerate the goods or styles which the firm have on hand, for they are complete in variety and first class in quality.

THE COURTS.

Saturday's Proceedings.

CRIMINAL COURT—JUDGE STOWE.

Sentence was passed in the Criminal Court on Saturday in the following cases:

Commonwealth vs. J. M. Caldwell, J. W. Pittock, et al. In this case a plea of nolo contendre was entered on an indictment for libel, on oath of B. W. Morgan. J. M. Caldwell was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and costs, J. W. Pittock and R. P. Nevin each a fine of fifty dollars, and J. J. Nevin, and E. H. Nevin a fine of twenty dollars each.

Commonwealth vs. O'Neil & Rook, of the Dispatch. Defendants had pleaded nolo contendire to an indictment for libel, in which case G. W. Kredell was prosecutor. The defendants were sentenced to pay a fine of $10 each, with the costs of prosecution.

E. S. Haughawout, for embezzlement, was sentenced to pay a fine of six cents and costs, and imprisonment at the Work House for six months.

Cass Little, of Robinson, and W. Northey, of Ross township, for selling liquor without license, were each sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs.

John McClarren, of the Fourteenth ward, Pittsburgh, for illegal liquor selling, was sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs on one indictment, and the costs on another.

COMMON PLEAS—JUDGES STERRETT AND COLLIER.

Wm. Batchke filed a bill in equity, and asked for a preliminary injunction restraining Messrs. Jones & Laughlins from laying down a railroad track to their works in Ormsby borough. It is alleged in the bill that the respondents propose to occupy a twenty-six foot street, abutting on which is complainant's dwelling house. Baird Patterson, Esq., argued in support of the motion for preliminary injunction, and M. W. Acheson in opposition. The decision of the Court was reserved.

PARKER OIL FIELD.

PETERSBURG.

The Neely and Smullen well, owned by Neely & Smullen, on Ritz Run, Keating farm, has been pumping for about ten days—starting at ten barrels and increasing to twenty.

A well on the D. Ritz farm commenced pumping on the 26th of April, yielding oil for a time at the rate of 75 barrels per day. This well is located on a seven-acre lease, taken originally by Rev. Shoemaker at a tenth royalty and subleased at one-fourth, thus securing for himself without the expenditure of money or labor the difference between a tenth and a fourth—a pretty good operation for a Rev. gentleman; proving to the world that where religious denominations fail to pay their ministers proper compensation they can sometimes step beyond their fields of labor and help themselves as well as other men.

A well is being drilled on Turkey Run, Stubble farm, some ninety rods above the old Hulings well, which has reached the third sand, and the hole is said to be filled up about 800 feet with oil. A big well is expected.

R. P. Borland and Mr. Neely are sinking a well on the Isaac Neely farm which has attained a depth of about 900 feet. The indications thus far are said to be good.

A well owned by Wing, Wilson and others is being sunk on a ten-acre lease on the Paul Fry farm, immediately north of Isaac Neely tract. This well was drilled a depth of about 100 feet when it was ascertained that the hole was crooked. The well was filled to the top and a new start taken with a determination to keep straight next time.

A part of the Keating farm, on the west bank of Turkey Run between the Furnace and the Clarion river, was recently sold to the Columbia Oil Company for $300 per acre and an eighth royalty.

BUTLER COUNTY.

A well is being drilled on the farm of A. L. Campbell, by Mr. Larry, about one and a-half miles from Fairview, which [illegible] penetrated the third sand some [illegible] on Saturday morning, when the [illegible] hole at once filled to a considerable extent with oil. During the day, while drilling, oil flowed in large quantities from the hole, about forty barrels of which were caught and tanked. The indications are that the well will prove a large one, while it develops new territory and shows that there is no limit to this extensive oil field.

The well owned by O. D. Levis and Brawley, being drilled on the Rumbaugh farm, near North Washington, is now down over 1,000 feet.

Lambing Bros. commenced drilling a well on the John Smith farm, about three miles north of Sunbury, on Monday last.

An oil rig is being erected on the farm of David Stewart, about two miles north-east of Sunbury. The rig and lease are owned by Lambing and others.

An oil rig has been erected at Hopewell Factory, on Silver Creek, about six miles west of Lawrenceburg.

Timbers are on the ground and preparations are being made to erect an oil rig on the Hamilton farm, three or four miles north of Sunbury. Wilt and others are the owners of the rig and lease.

McKinny & Nesbit well No. 2, on the Wilt farm, reached the top of the third sand on Friday last, but while drawing the tools the rope broke and left them in the hole, in consequence of which the well will be delayed for some time.

The well owned by Captain Spurr and others on the Campbell farm, south of Martinsburg, which was sunk some months ago and supposed to be dry, was torpedoed some days ago, we are informed, and its production brought up for a time at least to about 40 barrels per day.

The well about being completed on the A. L. Campbell farm, near Fairview, we understand belongs to Mr. McPherson and others. The third sand has been penetrated some depth—the drilling progresses and large quantities of oil continues to flow from the hole. The well will undoubtedly prove a large one.

A well owned by J. C. Moore, Maj. Wilson, K. Potts and Capt. W. H. Timblin, was struck some days ago on the Hutchinson farm, which is still yielding 30 or 35 barrels of oil per day.

FASHION FANCIES.

What to Wear—Some of the Styles as Detailed by a Fifth Avenue Belle.

A few days ago a couple of young ladies were making their accustomed pedestrian tour up Fifth avenue, evidently "to see and be seen." They were energetically discussing the important theme of "What to wear and how to wear it;" and from their conversation our fashion editress gathered many interesting items:

"You ought to see my 'Dolly Varden,' Mary! It's perfectly lovely, and will make up real stylish. It is one of these buff-tinted grounds, sprinkled with boquets of flowers. I am going to have it cut polonaise, and looped up with bows of velvet or gros grain the color of the design. Then I've got a 'Dolly Varden' hat to wear with it. It is a sort of a gipsy, you know; the brim lined with buff-colored silk, and turned up at the back. A spray of long-stemmed English roses, without foliage, is placed at the side. It's very becoming!"

"I'm going to get me a 'camel's hair' cloth suit. It is much more fashionable than cashmere, and then it is so expensive that it will not find its way into cheap imitations. I shall select a soft tint and have it richly embroidered with different shades of the color, and bordered with a guipure lace, the exact shade of the material. Than I saw a perfect love of a bonnet at Madame ——— that I'm going to get. It 's a Dunstable straw, trimmed with turquoise blue, and black gros grain ribbon. It's expensive, but I'd rather pay a good price for a thing and know what I'm getting."

"You ought to have attended Mrs. Everett's party last night. I never saw such elaborate dresses in my life. The belle of the evening was Miss Devereux, a French lady. She wore a dress of pale lilac, 'poulll de soie' worn under an overdress of fine white organdy. The skirt of the dress was a demi-train, bordered with a garniture about fifteen inches deep, disposed in 'godet' plaits and confined by a full, pinked ruching of silk. The overgarment was in a polonaise style in front and at the sides, the centre piece of the back forming a short, rounded basque, with the skirt sewed to it, looped in a most graceful manner.

"The garniture consisted of standard double-edged plaited trimming edged with Valenciennes lace. Three rows of this trimming were disposed across the front and sides, the lower row only being continued across the back piece, the others terminating at the seams of the side forms, under bows of gros grain ribbon. The round basque, the sleeves, and the neck were trimmed with the narrowest width of the plaiting, and bows matching those on the back of the skirt placed on the sleeves and the front of the waist. She did look beautiful, but I wouldn't admit it to Fred. He raved about her beauty till I declared I was fearfully jealous. They say she is to spend the summer in a round of visiting with friends in the country, and at various watering-places, and that her summer outfit is perfectly gorgeous. She has a costume of self-colored cashmere, trimmed with bands of silk, the lower one vandyked and put on with an embroidery stitch. A costume of camel's hair cloth, in a medium cameo tint, embroidered with the different shades of the same color, and trimmed with wide silk guipure to match. Complete suit of black silk, trimmed with a fine passementerie, to simulate embroidery, and bordered with a deep fringe. Then she has a lovely suit of embroidered bastisle. A second of buff silk; a third of unbleached linen, trimmed with unbleached linen lace. A polonaise of white satin-striped organdy; another of pink and white striped Chambery gauze. An underdress of pink glace silk, trimmed with narrow flounces. A long-trained black silk dress, cut low and square, with a Watteau overdress of Spanish lace, trimmed and ornamented with bands and loops of black velvet. Two elegant evening dresses: the skirt of one is blue silk, trimmed with light flounces of rose crepe de chine; the tunic, crepe de chine of the same color, is looped up on one side with branches of roses, and on the other with a wide blue scarf sash; the bodice in the Louis XV. style, with long point in front, is trimmed with bows, and with a bouquet of roses upon the left side. The second is a very light peacock-colored faille; a deep flounce of clear white muslin, put on with a heading and edged top and bottom with lace, placed half way up the skirt in front, gradually lowered at the sides and continued to follow the shape of the train behind; a white muslin tunic, edged with a deep Valenciennes lace flounce. This remains open in front, and is draped on either side with pompons of peacock-colored ribbon; the tunic is fully gathered, but not puffed out behind: the corsage is cut low and round, and is ornamented with bias folds of muslin and a deep lace border.

"I can imagine just what a sensation she'll make at Newport! I'll wager my bottom dollar as Fred says, that she'll make more conquests than she can count."

"Very likely. Men admire dress far more than they care to own. But just now I'm more anxious to know if cloaks and Talmas are to be worn."

"They say spring suits are made with the double cape instead of the basque. Linen suits are made with the sack and Talma, on pretty design, and a single skirt ornament with two very deep and scant flounces; the sack belted in forms another flounce, and a small Talma added for the street completes the suit. But the polonaise will be the most commonly worn" and they passed out of sight.

STRARGE TRAGEDY.

Child-Murder and Suicide by a Wife and Mother.

One of the most remarkable tragedies of the day, resulting from certain, though unsuspected insanity, recently occurred at Davenport, Iowa. Herman Malehau, a resident of that place, left his wife and child at home on the 26th ult., apparently well and happy. They had been married about two years; were much attached to their little boy and to each other; and were regarded by their near neighbors as one of the most harmonious and contented families in the place. When Mr. Malehau returned from his work, at noon, his wife had dinner ready for him, and cheerfully spoke to him about the work she had done in the morning in the way of washing the windows ane other housewifery. There was no hereditary insanity in the family; there had never been any indication of it in her actions. She had always been jovial and talkative, without any trace of gloom in her nature. Yet, when Mr. Melehau returned to his work, after dinner, this happy, devoted wife and fond mother went deliberately to work to destroy the life of her child and herself. She took a water-barrel into the house from the yard and half-filled it with water, closing the doors and window-shutters, laid her husband's coat on the bed, and placed on it the following note which she had written:

"Malehau, I don't like to live. I wish every day for my death. How good, good, good you have been to me and my child; I have kept this secret; I want you to do likewise; follow me."

When her husband returned from his cooper's shop at half-past six o'clock, he found everything quiet about the house. The blinds were down, and no one came to meet him. Entering the front room he found and read the note, but thought it a joke. He then passed into the back room, and saw his wife leaning into a barrel which stood near the door. He still took the matter as a jest until he took hold of her and found that she was dead, with her head sunk in the water. Stunned, half-crazed, he took the stiff body out and rushed out of doors to look for his little boy. Not seeing him, a fearful thought brought him back again to the fatal barrel, and there he found the dead body of his child. All the details as developed at the Coroner's inquest show this to be a case of insanity—and yet of insanity disproved by every presumption based upon facts of her life and character, and proved solely by deliberate and secret child murder and suicide.

The Munson Lightning Rod.

MASSACHUSETTS AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, AMHERST, Mass., March 4, 1868.

GENTLEMEN: I regard the Munson Copper Tabular Lightning Rod superior to anything before the public. It is a better conductor and less liable to fail from any cause to carry safely to the earth an electric discharge than an iron rod six times the size. It is firmly united so as to form a continuous conductor, and from its lightness and pliability is, when fastened to buildings, much less likely to break the insulators and get out of place than a heavy rod. By order of our Board, the Munson Rod has been attached to the six buildings of the State Agricultural College.

Improvement Trust COMPANY

OF PITTSBURGH.

Department of Real Estate,

This Company offer at PRIVATE SALE the remaining Lots in their

Highland Tract at Mansfield,

On the P., C. & St. Louis Railway, where all Express Trains stop.

Prices Moderate.	Interest Discarded.
Terms Unequalled.	Houses Built.
Life Insured.	Improvements Progressing.
Lots Large.	Location Commanding.
Streets Broad,	Neighborhood Agreeable.

Purchase While there is Room for Large Profit.

A marked increase in the population throughout the entire CHARTIERS VALLEY, centering at MANSFIELD, during the last season, is an assurance that property in this vicinity will rapidly enhance in value. The Pennsylvania Company have already and are still extensively improving the character of the Railroad, which, with the certain early construction of the Tripartite Bridge, will vastly improve the accessibility of this section, tending to advance the value of Real Estate there to an equality with that of the East Liberty District, both of which lie at the same distance in opposite directions from the business and manufacturing portions of the city.

DEEDS are given for ALL LOTS sold on the following

Established Terms of the Company:

One-tenth cash on delivery of deed. Balance in 100 MONTHLY PAYMENTS WITHOUT INTEREST.

A Policy of LIFE INSURANCE is also given with each Lot purchase, covering the balance due in case of death of purchaser: provided the applicant be safely insurable as to age and physical condition.

HOUSES WILL BE BUILT on Lots sold by the Company, after one-half of purchase price is paid on lot—payable for, also, in 100 monthly payments without interest.

Yellow Springs

HOTEL PROPERTY,

At Auction,

On WEDNESDAY, May 8, at 12 M.,

ON THE PREMISES.

HEATH, DAVIE & CO., Auctioneers,

No. 16 East Fourth Street, Cincinnati.

The favorite Summer resort, the Yellow Springs House, with cottages, billiard room, ten pin alley, boat, swing, barn, ice house, &c., including eight acres of beautiful lawn, shaded with fruit trees, &c.; also the furniture and all equipments for doing a first-class hotel business. The hotel and cottages have capacity to accommodate comfortably 250 to 300 guests. The lawn is handsomely laid out in walks, drives, croquet grounds, &c. There is a beautiful stream of water running through the grounds.

The Springs are well known to the medical profession as possessing excellent tonic qualities, and are especially recommended for persons of delicate constitutions. The grounds are known to be the highest point in the State. The railroad facilities are unsurpassed; six trains stop at the hotel, connecting with all the principal railroads North, East, South and West.

Possession given on day of sale.

Title good. Sale positive.

Terms—One quarter cash; balance in one, two and three years, with interest.

N. B.—Will sell furniture separately if not sold with real estate.

Catalogue of Furniture, &c., can be had of the Auctioneers. ap29:q25-MFW

VALUABLE BUSINESS PROPERTY, CORNER OF PENN AVENUE AND NINTH OR HAND STREET, PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, May 7th, at 4 o'clock, will be sold on the premises, corner of Penn avenue and Ninth or Hand street, that prominently situate and valuable business property, having 53 feet 3 inches front on Penn avenue, and 70 feet 3 inches front on Ninth or Hand street, whereon are the three-story Brick Buildings, Nos. 43, 45, 47 and 49 Hand street.

The advantageous situation of this property in the immediate business re-adjustment of Pittsburgh, is so eminently conspicuous that no word or suggestion is required. Already are both these thoroughfares attracting attention for business locations by the immense travel upon them. The Tripartite Bridge below, and the Railroad centre above, must make Penn one of the greatest business avenues of our city at this central point, which will convert Hand into a second St. Clair street.

Terms—$20,000 cash; balance in three equal payments, with interest, payable semi-annually.

Full possession given immediately.

my1 A. McILWAINE, Auctioneer.

VALUABLE PROPERTIES, FIFTH WARD, ALLEGHENY CITY—ALLEGHENY AND REBECCA AVENUES.

TUESDAY MORNING, May 7th, at 10 o'clock, will be sold on the premises, in Fifth ward, Allegheny City, THE VALUABLE CORNER LOT, 36 feet 6 inches front on Rebecca avenue, and 110 feet in depth along Allegheny avenue to Brown street, having a 21 feet front on Brown st., and about 108 feet in depth on its inside line to Rebecca avenue. Also, the valuable Lot 21 feet 6 inches front on Rebecca avenue, and 108 feet in depth to Shields street, whereon is the two story BRICK DWELLING, No. 190 Rebecca avenue, containing 4 rooms, kitchen and cellar, besides a two-story Frame Dwelling on Shields street, containing 6 rooms, attic and cellar.

TERMS—One-third cash; balance in two equal annual payments, with interest.

Both of these properties are convenient to the proposed Allegheny end of the Tripartite Bridge, and will greatly enhance in value at once.

my1 A. McILWAINE, Auctioneer.

$30,000

Worth of Property to be Given Away

300 Beautiful Building Lots

AT

OAKDALE STATION!

Tickets, $1.00.

At conclusion of the Concert the Manager will distribute 300 BUILDING LOTS to the ticket holders in the usual manner, but HONESTLY and IMPARTIALLY.

These Lots belong to Mr. S. GILLILAND, of Pittsburgh, Pa., whose title to the same is indisputable, and being situated convenient to the city, will make excellent and pleasant homes for the workingman and mechanic. These Lots are increasing in value daily. A rich six feet vein of Bituminous Coal underlies this property. A coal bank is open and in good working order. This bank, which gives full access to the coal underneath, will be given away with the lot on which it is situated. The coal, valued at 1½ cents per bushel, is worth $10,000. A neat Frame Cottage House is also situated on this property, and with the Outbuildings will be given away with the lot on which it is built. Oakdale is a well known, thriving and prosperous town, and at present contains an Academy, Female College, Malt House, Postoffice, Express Office, and a large number of handsome Dwelling Houses, and taken altogether, is a desirable place for industrious working men to settle.

CLUB PREMIUMS.—To the getter up of a club of thirty a handsome Silver Watch will be given. To the getter up of a club of twenty, Five Tickets will be given. To the getter up of a club of ten, two Tickets will be given. To the getter up of a club of six, one Ticket will be given.

The following named gentlemen, well known and prominent citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny cities, have permitted us to refer to them. They will vouch for the honesty and integrity of the enteprise. Hon. James Blackmore, Mayor of Pittsburgh, and President of the Mechanics' Savings Bank; Benjamin Singerly, State Printer; R. Munson Purcell, Editor and Publisher of the Weekly Mirror, Allegheny City, Pa.; Col. Samuel Kilgore, County Treasurer. As to title to said property, refer to H. S. BUSINESS CHANGES.

CO-PARTNERSHIP.—THE UNDERsigned, having purchased the interest of Hays & Stewart, do associate themselves under the style of JAMES CALLERY & CO., who will continue to carry on the TANNING, CURRYING and LEATHER BUSINESS in all its branches, at the Tannery, situated in the Eighth ward, Allegheny City. Also, at the Store, 102 Liberty street, near Ferry street.

JAMES CALLERY & CO.

In retiring from the Tanning and Leather business, we would respectfully solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended, to our successors, JAMES CALLERY & CO., who always have a full assortment of Leather on hand.

HAYS & STEWART.
